Spotlight Suburb Dilemma Saturday

The Editor's Column

by STUART R. PADDOCK

We will enjoy being host at the Suburban Problems Clinic to be held Saturday at the Arlington Heights high school cafeteria. The panelists and speakers are experts in their fields and know whereof they speak.

After visiting antique shops in all parts of the United States, we had a new "antiquer" experience last weekend when we spent two days at Galena.

The occasion was its annual Tour of Historic Homes.

The antique shops were not much different than those found elsewhere but the six private homes opened to public displayed their antique treasures. Their owners had turned a deaf ear to Chicago antique dealers.

The event was sponsored by the Guild of the oldest church building in continuous service in Illinois—the First Presbyterian church (119 years).

The store windows were filled with antique articles and dresses that the residents of that city had loaned. It reminded us of the Palatine Centennial two years ago.

Women in hoop skirts and bustles added to the atmosphere. Progress has passed Galena by —from a city of 15,000 when Chicago was only a village, it now can only claim 5,000

Many 4-story buildings built during the prosperous days 100 years ago, line the business streets, leaving no room for modern construction. Its citizens are proud of their history. Its prosperity today depends upon tourists.

The custom house at which all boats plying the Mississippie river stopped is just history. Two stories have been sliced off the 5-story Desota Hotel, which General Grant used as his headquarters during his 2 campaigns for the presidency.

A visit to Galena is worthwhile if only to view the 110 year old Grace Episcopal church, with its near Byzantine colors of blue, gold and rose. The black walnut hand carved reredos and altar as well as the lecturn with the bas-relief of an eagle is noteworthy — and the Gothic church standing high on the hill is built of hand hewn rock from its hillside.

We did not start this column just to talk about Galena antiques but about the cost of a new school completed in time for September opening by architect W. C. McCaughey who is no stranger in these parts.

When we met the architect by chance at the newly restored Market House our conversation turned to the recent exposure of high school building costs in a national magazine.

He thinks there is often good reason for many statements regarding unnecessary high costs of schools. As he says, "certain lines of contractors think nothing of including a few Cadillacs in their costs when they prepare bids."

Elimination of the so called "Cadillacs" enabled Mr. McCaughey to build 54,000 foot Galena school for $510,000—less than $10 a foot. "With the "Cadillacs" included there would have been no new school building," said the architect.

That may be the reason why his firm has built so many schools in Mt. Prospect, as well as at McHenry, Niles, Crystal Lake, Park Ridge and Wilmette, as well as many smaller districts, with limited funds.

Seated in an easy chair in his "hide-a-way" as he describes the commodious home he has built on the banks of the Mississippi, he told us how he did it.

Mr. McCaughey punctuated his statements with rather strong words about the gouging that has been given many schools by profit seeking contractors.

Supt. Murphy told us today that McCaughey not only completes schools on schedule but at costs that were in effect 7 years ago.

Problems Clinic At High School

Juvenile delinquency, education, zoning, and planning in northwest suburbs will be discussed Saturday in a unique all-day conference at Arlington high school.

Paddock Publications, in cooperation with more than 400 village officials and civic leaders, will present its first Suburban Problems Clinic from 9:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This conference is the first of its kind ever sponsored by a suburban newspaper. It will enable leaders in northwest Cook county to jointly discuss and exchange ideas on problems which directly concern this area.

LEADING discussion for 3 panel sessions during the day will be Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools; Sheriff Joseph D. Lohman; and Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman of the county zoning board and village president of Barrington Hills.

Serving with them on their respective panels will be recognized authorities from northwest suburbs who will specifically discuss this area's problems.

Highlight of the meeting will be a luncheon address by Ira J. Bach, commissioner of planning for the city of Chicago. Luncheon arrangements are under the supervision of Monica Catering of Park Ridge.

THE CLINIC will open at 9:45 a.m. with a welcoming address by Stuart R. Paddock, president of Paddock Publications and editor of its 12 suburban newspapers.

The public may attend separate sessions of the clinic, according to co-chairmen Tom Brennan and Charles Hayes. Reserved sections will be set aside for invited guests.

All panels will include special periods for questions from the floor.

"WE FEEL that this community service project meets a need long felt in our area," explained Paddock. "For the first time, we shall have an opportunity to discuss on an area level those important problems of growth which affect all our communities."

Among guests at the clinic will be Ira W. Cole, dean of the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern university; Walter T. Popjoy, secretary of the county zoning board of appeals; State Senator W. Russell Arrington; William N. Erickson, member county board of commissioners; Frank E. Hodek Jr., member of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission; State Senator Jackson L. Boughner; and State Rep. John W. Carroll.

Area Zoning Panel Topic

The dilemma of zoning and planning in booming northwest suburbs will be spotlighted Saturday at one of 3 sessions of the Suburban Problems Clinic.

LEADING discussion of zoning and planning at the conference in Arlington high school cafeteria will be Andrew J. Dallstream, attorney and village president of Barrington Hills.

He is particularly familiar with the problems of growth in northwest Cook county through his experience as chairman of the county zoning board.

SERVING WITH Dallstream will be Edward S. Jackson, former chairman of Arlington Heights zoning board; Charles Klopp, architect-designer and chairman of Palatine plan commission; Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, professor of journalism at Northwestern university and former chairman of the Cook County Housing authority; and Richard R. Young, vice chairman of the Mt. Prospect plan commission.

Bach to Tell How Planning Can Help Northwest Area

One of the nations' top experts in metropolitan planning will discuss planning and its role in the development of northwest Cook county at Paddock Publications' first Suburban Problems Clinic Saturday.

Ira J. Bach, commissioner of planning for the city of Chicago, will deliver the main address at a luncheon for clinic participants in Arlington high school cafeteria.

THE NOTED city planner and architect will be introduced by Charles Hayes, managing editor of Paddock Publications and co-chairman of the Suburban Problems Clinic.

Bach's housing and planning career started in 1942 when he participated in the planning of war housing in Utah, Colorado, and Wyoming, serving as director of the Tri-County Regional Planning commission in Denver.

Returning to Chicago in 1943, Bach acted for a year as director of planning for the Chicago Housing authority and then joined the newly-formed Cook County Housing authority as executive director in 1944.

FOUR YEARS later, he was appointed executive director of the Chicago Land Clearance commission. During his 8 years in this post, Bach supervised the organization and progress of 10 redevelopment projects involving more than 500 acres.

The cost of this redevelopment program is estimated at $50 million. It will provide housing for 6,700 families, several industrial centers and shopping centers. The cost of the new buildings to be erected on these redevelopment sites is estimated at $200 million.

Bach studied at University of Illinois, Harvard university, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Planners and past president of the honorary land economics society.

He is also a member of the regional council of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials.

Public High

The word "high" in "high seas" means "public," and is used in the same way as "Highways."

BOY SCOUT FUND CAMPAIGN in Arlington Heights was officially initiated with a proclamation from Village President Edward Carlisle urging community support in the October 15 appeal. Pictured with Carlisle are Scott MacKenzie of cub pack 151, George Sawyer of explorer post 23, Douglas Spaulding of troop 51, and Mynderse Taylor, troop 23 scoutmaster. Chairman of the Arlington Heights and Elk Grove drives is Charles Holdmair.

Alert State Police Catch Bank Robber in 40 Minutes

STATE POLICE LISTENED Monday afternoon as 3 persons living on a farm on Penny rd. in Barrington township told how a young bank robber stopped there and asked for a drink after sticking up a bank in Dundee. Police spotted his car and arrested him only 40 minutes after the robbery. Talking are (from left) Mrs. Clara Gritmacker, Mrs. Harold Rieke and Fred Gritmacker.

by TOM BRENNAN

An ex-convict from Des Plaines figured that police protection in the sprawling northwest suburban area didn't amount to much.

He guessed wrong.

James Gornick, 25, of 1441 Cora ave., Des Plaines, held up and robbed the First National bank of Dundee of $5,216 at 12:50 p.m. Monday.

AT 1:30 P.M. he was in the custody of Illinois state police.

Gornick was apprehended on a farm in southwestern Barrington township, less than 4 miles from the bank.

The speed of his capture was a tribute to the effectiveness of a small band of state police, with an assist due to a bank employee who obtained the license number of the fleeing auto.

THERE WAS MORE of the methodical than the dramatic during the swift sequence of events.

By 1 p.m. state police squad cars in north Cook and Kane counties had been given a description of the wanted car and dispatched to key intersections throughout the northwest area. The bold bandit was thought to be heading down Higgins rd. toward Chicago.

For example, 1:05 p.m., Officer Richard Hoffman of Rolling Meadows, who was on duty cruising in Maine and Elk Grove townships, had reached his post at Golf and Algonquin rds.

Other squads from district 3, at Irving Park rd. and Harlem ave., and district 2, in Elgin, waited at other intersections and drove down little-used back roads.

A 1:25 P.M. Officers Richard Byrnes and John Jaskula, an Arlington Heights resident, spotted the green Ford in the driveway of a farm on Penny rd.

As a man fitting the description walked out of a barn on the opposite side of the road, the pair drew their guns. Gornick did not resist arrest.

HE HAD LEFT A loaded Luger pistol and a blue canvas bag containing the cash in small bills on the front seat of the car.

Two housewives who live on the farm told police the man had pulled into the farmyard, got out of his car and asked them for a drink of water. After a second drink of water the women became nervous, even though the man said he had worked for the former owner of the place.

The women suggested Gornick cross the road to the barn to speak with the men working there, and he had a similar conversation with them. Gornick said he was working for a contractor in Chicago but had been laid off for the day.

GORNICK WAS released from Stateville prison July 17 after serving 5 years and 4 months for 7 store and tavern holdups. He was sentenced to 2 years in Pontiac reformatory for 1949 tavern robberies.

State police turned over the suspect to the FBI because the bank was federally insured. Tuesday, the FBI found in Gornick's home jewelry valued at $12,000 — loot from a September 20 Loop jewelry store robbery.

A number of the officers who participated in the roundup recently joined the state police force as a result of 1957 legislation upping its manpower.

A BEFORE-AND-AFTER-VIEW of the capture of a 25-year-old ex-convict from Des Plaines who robbed a Dundee bank Monday noon shows (above) one of the state police which waited at key intersections for the getaway car to pass and (below) a state policeman examining damage done to his car by the robber as he fled. Waiting at the intersection of Golf and Algonquin rds. near Arlington Heights is a car manned by Officer Richard Hoffman of Rolling Meadows.

Federal Hospital Grant Confirmed

One more of the many necessary steps in the sure path toward a hospital for the growing communities of the Northwest suburban area was completed last week upon receipt of word from Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church on official approval of the Federal grant of $600,000 to the hospital project.

Pledges, combined with Federal aid, now bring the hospital fund total to more than $1,900,000.

ON THE UPCOMING schedule of the hospital program is a dedication of the hospital site just south of Arlington Heights, and the arranging of interim financing which will permit hospital construction on the basis of pledges made, although some of the payments will still be coming in after the hospital has been built.

Business executives on the hospital board, headed by Herbert F. Bruning, President of Charles Bruning co., who is chairman of the finance committee, are directing the negotiations for required short-term loans and the preparation of necessary records on pledges and payments which are required by banks and insurance companies on projects such as this one.

"WITH THE federal grant an actuality," said Nicholas M. Latsof, chairman of the hospital board, "and with other financing arrangements soon to be completed, we can look forward to announcing specific plans about ground-breaking, staff appointments, opening date, and the many other pieces of news for which the public is waiting."

What Problems Will First Suburban Clinic Cover?

What kind of problems will be examined at the Suburban Problems Clinic Saturday?

A list of questions which the experts will discuss at the 3 panel session during the all-day clinic were announced Thursday by Charles Hayes, managing editor, and Tom Brennan, associate editor, of Paddock Publications, clinic sponsors. They are co-chairmen of the program.

The general theme of discussion at the 10 a.m. panel on School Problems will be how to provide for adequate school facilities. Among the questions the panel members will discuss are:

Is the battle to provide minimal school facilities won? Or is it still the school district's number 1 problem? What about builder - school board cooperation?

A secondary theme will center around citizen support of schools. Wheeling School Superintendent Jack W. Norris Will discuss the question of whether Wheeling voters' recent rejection of a school tax increase was a "fluke" or a "symptom."

COUNTY SCHOOL Superintendent Noble J. Puffer is expected to examine this question from a country-wide standpoint.

This panel also will examine the need for additional revenue to operate school systems and where it will come from - state aid, higher taxes or more industry.

And finally is school district consolidation the answer to many educational problems? What is the attitude of rural, small and city districts to further consolidations?

OTHER SCHOOL problems panel members are William I. Casteel, Wilson School District 24 board; Arthur F. Riley, president, Hasbrook Construction co..; and Vincent Nunamaker, Elk Grove School district 59 Men's association.

The welcoming address will be delivered by Stuart R. Paddock, president of Paddock Publications.

Ira J. Bach, Chicago Planning Commissioner, will be the principal speaker at the 11:15 a.m. luncheon in the Arlington High school cafeteria, which also will be the location for the all-day clinic.

The afternoon session will open at 1:30 p.m. with a panel discussion on juvenile delinquency.

THE PANELISTS will define juvenile delinquency and whether or not in this area the so-called juvenile problems are actually only "adolescent growing pains." Or, on the other hand, "Do the northwest suburbs actually face a serious problem of 'juvenile crime?'"

Sheriff Joseph D. Lohman, Chief Cecil Campbell of Rolling Meadows and Thomas A. Ullock, former Rolling Meadows chief, will discuss the role of local, county and state police agencies in the prevention and treatment of juvenile delinquency.

Dr. Eugene Oliver, Arlington High school administrator, will consider schools' responsibility in the juvenile program.

Miss Lucia Thomas, assistant state's attorney, also will be a member of the Juvenile Delinquency panel.

THE CLOSING session - zoning and planning - will begin at 3 p.m., under the chairmanship of Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman county Zoning Board.

Panelists will discuss these questions:

What is the purpose of zoning - current status of community planning in the northwest area - are governmental bodies trying to expand and improve central bsuiness districts?

Assuming that suburbs now recognize the need for industry, panelists will consider the question of where such industry can be located in residential communities. They will report how the problem has been met in some communities and what methods were used to attract industry to the suburbs.

ANOTHER BIG problem, facing community planners, is how to provide for the orderly development of unincorporated areas.

The panel will explore this subject with these 2 "starter" questions:

Is the only solution for guaranteed, high-caliber development through incorporation into a village or city? And what protection does one small unincorporated residential surburb now have against undesirable fringe growth?

Zoning and Planning panelists are: Edward S. Jackson, former chairman of the Arlington Heights Zoning board; Charles Klopp, chairman of the Palatine Plan commission; Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, former chairman, Cook County Housing authority and professor of journalism at Northwestern University; and Richard R. Young, vice-chairman, Mt. Prospect Plan commission.

MORE THAN 200 reservations have been received for the clinic.

It will be the first clinic of its kind in this area and has been described "as a significant step in a continuing effort to assure northwest suburbanites of an attractive environment in which to live and to work." (AF

We had spent an hour that afternoon at the Dowling House, Galena's oldest home, which was on the Historic Home Tour last weekend. Mr. McCaughey had purchased and restored the home, furnishing it with original antiques. His only worry that afternoon was "too many visitors." They stood in line a long time as groups of only 15 were admitted at a time.

As we visited his spacious studio on the Mississippi Bluffs, we wondered how he had time to paint. He does not call his water colors his hobby. "They give me a zest for life," he told us. We believe him.

He may be well known in building circles as a good architect, but in the painting world he is also being recognized as a real artist. He has displayed his pictures at the Art Institute and at other showings.

When his wife told him that evening, "Two of your paintings were purchased today," he expressed sorrow that they were going to persons unknown to him. They were on display with those of other artists that weekend in the newly state restored Market House, the plans for which were drawn by McCaughey.

The Party Line

Denise Kay Flickinger celebrated her fifth birthday Tuesday with an afternoon party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Flickinger, 632 S. Walnut. Guests enjoying the games and refreshments were Susan and Sandra Nesheim, Marna Tellier, Susan Hruska, Tommy Lemmons, Scott Baker, Gary Dalbke, Steven and Connie Wysocki and Kristen Clark.

Johnny Fairfield's second birthday was recently observed with a family gathering at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fairfield, 1333 N. Illinois. Among the guests were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fairfield and Walter Denis of Chicago, and a cousin, Johnny Dyer of Nashville who is visiting with the Fairfields in Chicago.

Surprise Party

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Luber, 844 S. Dunton, were guests Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Armstrong, 907 S. Dunton st., for what they thought was a celebration of Mr. Armstrong's October 2 birthday. Instead they were the guests of honor at the party given to celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary. Plans have been under way for almost a month to surprise the Lubers and the party was completely successful in that as well as all other aspects.

Co-hosts were neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Max Ullrich, 915 S. Dunton, who assisted throughout and had a hand in the clever decorations done in the colors worn by Mrs. Luber's bridesmaid of 15 years ago. The honored and flabbergasted guests were presented with a waffle iron, and games, dancing and late refreshments rounded out a full night's entertainment.

To complete the Lubers' illusion that they were attending a birthday party for their host, guests brought "goofy gifts" for Mr. Armstrong, adding to the fun of the occasion. Other guests and co-conspirators were Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pagliai, Mr. and Mrs. Ehrhardt Reiss, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paveza and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Koegel.

Birthdays

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hirons, 1020 N. Chestnut, were honored on their September birthdays at recent family celebrations. Mrs. Hirons' birthday was September 17 and her husband's the following week, September 23.

Last Wednesday evening the John Haydens, 220 N. Dwyer, celebrated their son, Michael's, first birthday with a family party at their home. Among the guests were the birthday boy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Luehring.

Linen Shower

Miss Suzanne Marsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marsh, 212 S. Dunton st., was feted at a pre-nuptial linen shower last Friday evening, climaxing 3 weeks of social activities given in her honor as bride-elect of Frederick Ryser of Zion. Hostess Friday was Mrs. Max Ryser, aunt of the groom-to-be, who gave a family dinner party for 20 at her home in Glenview.

The social whirl in Miss Marsh's honor began September 12 with a kitchen shower given by Mrs. John Kent, Mrs. Richard Bronwell and Mrs. Donald Thompson at the Kent home, 611 N. Douglas. Sixteen guests enjoyed luncheon and a social afternoon with the prospective bride.

The following week a pink champagne breakfast and luncheon for 10 was given by Mrs. George Kemper at her home on route 58. Guests were friends of the bride's mother and fellow club members who presented Miss Marsh with attractive gifts for the bathroom.

Twelve college friends celebrated with Miss Marsh next at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Donna Lichness and Miss Caroline Martino at Miss Lichness' home in Riverside.

Miss Marsh and Mr. Ryser will be united Saturday in the marriage rites of the Methodist church of Arlington Heights at candlelight services. The couple will make their home in Oak Park.

The Moving Van

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Clarbour and family, formerly of Arlington Heights and recently of Mishawaka, Ind., returned to this area Friday to make their home in Deerfield. They were welcomed back Sunday in their new home by Mr. Clarbour's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Clarbour, 41 S. Chestnut, his grandfather, Nels Olson, 219 S. State, and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Olson, 300 S. Dunton.

Mrs. Even Evenson was guest of honor last Wednesday afternoon at a farewell kaffee klatsch given by Mrs. A. H. Harting, 1104 N. Stratford. Six friends enjoyed a final gab fest before the Evenson family moved Saturday from their home at 1612 N. Rand rd. to a new home in Barneveld, Wis.

During their stay they were the guests of and attended the wedding with their daughter and family, the William Rudys, 822 N. Princeton, with whom Theodore has been making his home. The wedding Sunday united Mr. Privitera and Miss Rosemary Damico of Chicago in the rites of the Lady of Pompeii church, with the reception following at Nielsens in Elmwood Park. The couple will make their home in Chicago.

Family Reunited

The Luc LeBon family, 900 E. Euclid, was reunited Tuesday when Christine, 4, and Kathleen, 2, returned home to their parents and baby brother, Charles, after a 6-month stay in Belgium with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl LeBon of Antwerp. The little girls, accompanied by their grandparents, arrived in New York Monday, via the SS United States, then entrained for Chicago aboard the 20th Century streamliner.

The younger LeBons, while getting re-acquainted with their daughters, will also be enjoying their first reunion in 5 years. Mr. LeBon Sr. is vice-mayor of Antwerp and, as such, has a full schedule for the duration of his visit. We are pleased that so many of our neighbors have stopped in during recent months to discuss their fur questions — whether they are buying a new piece, re-styling, or having a piece repaired.

We don't expect that everyone interested in furs is in a position to buy—but we are pleased that so many are convinced that after 20 years of fur buying, styling, and selling, a local furrier knows his business.

Don't be bashful — if you have a question about furs—one that you might want restyled, for example, stop in and see Mr. Senne — his advice will cost you nothing.

A FUND-RAISING DRIVE BEGAN among members of the Arlington Heights First Methodist church this week, the money to be used to build and equip a sanctuary. An architect's conception of the interior is shown above.

Methodists Launch New Fund Appeal

More than 200 men attended a dinner Monday to kick-off a campaign to raise $250,109 for the completion of Arlington Heights First Methodist church.

Charles F. Close, general chairman of the drive, said that $160,000 of the sum will be used to erect a new sanctuary to seat 600. It will be erected above the present Fellowship hall, used as a temporary sanctuary since the church moved to its present Euclid ave. location a year ago.

WITH THE balance of the money, organ, pews and chancel furniture will be purchased.

The campaign is "We Continue to Build" and the canvass of members will be done during the first 2 weeks of October. There are to be progress report meetings Wednesday and Friday of this week, 4 meetings next week and a "Victory Sunday" meeting at 4:30 p. m., October 13.

Church ministers are Dr. Hughes B. Morris and Rev. Hayes F. Fletcher.

Moehling Estate Provides $400,000 to Area Charity

St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church, Lutheran charities, boy and girl scouts and the village health department will share in the estate of a long-time Arlington Heights resident.

HENRY H. MOEHLING, a bachelor and retired office worker, died September 2 at Sherman hospital in Elgin. For many years he had lived at 314 N. Pine st.

According to terms of his will, admitted to Probate court Friday, more than $400,000 was left to charity. Total value of the estate was estimated at about $500,000.

MOEHLING, a member of a pioneer northwest area clan, left $40,000 to 3 cousins. They are Mrs. Minnie Meyer, Mrs. Alma Meier and Mrs. Clara Schimming (since deceased), all of Arlington Heights.

The will provides that $60,000 should be put in trust with Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust co., to be paid out in equal parts over 10 years to the Arlington Heights boy and girl scout organizations and to the village health department.

OTHER GRANTS were:

—$25,000 each to St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church, and the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, both in Arlington Heights.

—$25,000 to the Lutheran Child Welfare association in Addison.

—$20,000 to the Lutheran Sanitarium, Inc. in Denver, Colo.

—$105,000 to the Northern Illinois district of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod. The balance of the estate is to be held in trust for the synod.

MOEHLING'S attorney said the bequest to the village health department stemmed from his desire "to do something for the welfare of the community in which he had spent almost all of his life."

The deceased had been active in St. Peter's church but had not been connected with scouting movements, according to a friend.

Moehling inherited much of his wealth from his father Herman, a retired farmer who died in 1952. Moehling retired in 1947 as an office employee of a Chicago machinery firm.

THE FAMILY had accumulated wealth through real estate transactions, added the attorney. Also, "it was a saving family," he said. (AF

MAGIC CARPET TO MEXICO

There's Adventure Waiting In Metropolitan Mexico

by KAREN LACINA

Mexico City has a character all its own, although generally it is much like any other cosmopolitan city of the world. It has wide avenues that resemble the Outer Drive and skyscrapers, but not quite as many as you see in Chicago. There are many places to go and many things to do and see, and also many ways of getting there.

If you are a true sportsman, you might like to try driving once or twice for it is a kind of game. The point in the game is to try to outbluff the other fellow. (If you play, it is wise to carry both car and life insurance.)

The Mexican motorist can always tell when his opponent is a foreigner for they drive with much more caution than most drivers in Mexico. Cars change lanes constantly by simply a one-hand signal from either side of the car — whichever seems more convenient for the lane into which the car is charging.

SIGNS TELLING if the street is "one way" or not are small arrows saying "transito" which are located on the corners of buildings pointing in the direction of traffic.

The names of streets are also located on buildings sometimes causing difficulties for out-of-towners, because of the many circular parks with monuments which exist at many intersections. It is always cheaper, less nerve-wracking and usually more convenient to take a bus or taxi rather than drive in the city.

YOU WILL NEED a lot of luck in choosing your bus if you want to go to a specific place, other than downtown. However, most of the buses headed in the direction of the city proper end up very close to the center of "Zocalo" as it is called.

The Zocalo is supposedly the religious, governmental and commercial center of the city. The word remains from the Spanish influence after the Conquest. To stop an approaching bus, you must simply hold an arm out or hiss at it. (You usually hiss at a taxi.)

Many times as you ride the buses you will be entertained by musicians and singers who are blind or disabled in some way. There is another chance here for the foreigner to show he is friendly or just too miserly to spare 2 cents to the poor.

Usually the poor who beg on the buses are really the needy, but on the city streets there are many who just beg and there are notable differences between the two.

If you are in a hurry it is better to take a cab. There are 2 types of cabs you can take: one is a regular private cab which will take you exactly where you want to go, and the other is a "peso cab" which will take you down a central avenue for 8 cents, along with 5 or 6 other people each getting off at the most convenient place according to his specific destination. When you see a cab approaching with someone holding one finger out — it is a "peso cab."

IF YOU ARE a culture-seeker, you can visit museums, ancient Aztec ruins, the Palace of Fine Arts which houses much of Rivera's work as well as the well-known glass curtain colorfully depicting the 2 largest volcanoes in Mexico — Popocateptl and Ixtaccihuatl, and Chapultepec Park which includes the President's home, a museum and many statues and monuments telling the dramatic story of Mexico's history. The huge pyramids to the sun and to the moon of the Aztec Civilization are located in Teotihuacan, about an hour's ride from the city.

You should not miss a bullfight and a cockfight while you are there, for they are typically Mexican. The bullfights are at their best during our winter months from January to March when they have the best fighters from Spain perform. The rest of the year they have "novilladas" or fights of the novices, traditionally every Sunday at 4 p.m. begun by all the bright-costumed participants who parade in front of the judges' stand. The fronton games which are played every other night are also interesting to the foreigner. Fronton is played with rackets and a small hard ball which is batted against a wall by teams of two.

AS IN ANY LARGE city there is quite an assortment of nightclubs, bars, and restaurants to visit. These are enumerated in all guide books but somehow the guide books do not tell how different the Mexican nightclub is or where the really interesting places are. The typical nightclub is usually very obscurely lighted which lends a very romantic atmosphere to the soft-sounding orchestra which is made up of many stringed instruments instead of all the brass we are so accustomed to hearing in North American nightclubs. One cabaret which we found particularly interesting because of its peculiarities was a small place called Tenampa located on Garibaldi Square, one of the dirtiest sections of the city. It was the one place to hear Mariachi music, Mexico's national type of music, in all its natural surroundings, but I'm getting ahead of myself.

The markets of Mexico City were quite interesting and we found many bargains there that were worth the effort to find and the effort to "bargain." Once you accustom yourself to the meals and types of food in Mexico, go to one of the little "torterias" you see along any street in any part of the city. These are little sandwich shops which specialize in short order sandwiches made on French bread. We found the tastiest sandwiches we had ever eaten in these little shops especially when we found out that chicken was the national dish. Mexico's "tortas de pollo" or chicken sandwiches are the greatest! Another tasty bit which we stumbled on quite by accident were the "bunuelos." (This is impossible to translate.) They are large, pastry-like discs which have been dipped in hot fat and are quite airy. You cover them with a dark, syrupy-like Mexican honey, break them into bite-size pieces and eat like cookies.

THERE ARE MANY Catholic churches in the city, as Mexico is a Catholic country, however there are also a few protestant churches which hold services every Sunday.

There are many fine hotels which usually have cafeterias or dining rooms (many serving American food) connected with them.

It is possible for a North American to get along in Mexico City without speaking much Spanish, but we found that you can have more fun, enjoy your visit more if you try to use their language, for then everyone can laugh with you at all the mistakes and it does help you to understand our neighbor's culture and way of life. Prayer Overcomes All Mysteries

by LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Restlessness is a psychological condition in which all of us find ourselves at times. It makes some people irritable, drives others to drink, or dope.

Our bodies and minds are still great mysteries to us, even after thousands of years of philosophical probings, and 200 or 300 years of psychological research, which stemmed originally from the old Greek philosophers. Since the first medicine man went into a dance with strange incantations, the doctor has been trying to find out what's the matter with us. He has discovered a lot, but is still on the brink of discovering.

MY OWN DELVINGS into the mysteries of body and mind have given me some clues which may, or may not apply to you. I have found that sometimes an uneasy feeling in the region of my solar plexis can be overcome with an alka seltzer or a bromo. I have found out, too, that it can come from fear, worry, overeating, and even not enough sleep — or too much.

I have found that inactivity can cause it, and becoming interested in an absorbing subject or physical activity can overcome it. Guilt can cause it, too —have you acted like a heel lately? Did you blow your top for no cause at all? Did you beat some old lady to a seat on the bus? Have you been unfair to your wife, your family, or yourself?

SELF DISCIPLINE can overcome restlessness, so can learning to live with yourself and others; care in knowing what you can or can not eat or drink; plenty of good sound sleep.

And prayer. Any praying Christian will tell you the feeling of courage, joy and freedom that comes as God's answer when you take your troubles, your fears, worries, restlessness or shame to Him in sincere, faithful prayer on bended knees — just you and God alone in sweet communion.

Officials Kiss Barrington Bye

(CNS) Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago has decided to kiss all of Barrington township goodby.

The township, which includes the Cook county side of the village of Barrington, was brought under the district's jurisdiction in county referendum approved last November. But both the township and the village started action in Cook county court this month to withdraw from the district.

DISTRICT TRUSTEES September 26 decided not to oppose the moves.

County Judge Otto Kerner will hear the township's petition October 7 and the village's on October 17.

After considerable discussion, Anthony Olis, district president, announced it was the consensus of the trustees not to fight the moves.

However, the district found what is called a flaw in the township's petition.

RUSSELL W. ROOT, the district's chief attorney, said a preliminary report from its engineers disclosed that the legal descriptions of land involved in the township case were not completed.

"Some isolated spots were left out and will have to be corrected," Root said. Casimir Griglik, district trustee, quipped:

"Well, let them go out provided they take everything with them. Otherwise, how are we going to serve these isolated pockets."

The village has its own sanitary district while much of the township has estates of at least 5 acres that use septic tanks.

The township includes the village of Barrington Hills, incorporated last spring. (B8

Autumn presents special possibilities and special problems to the color photographer. Summer comes in shades of green; winter in blue and brown. Spring is a time of pastel buds and blossoms.

In these seasons, nature appears in variations on a single hue. The colors of fall, however, are brilliant and disorganized. To the eye it seems exciting and beautiful; to the camera, more often, jumbled and confused. Leaves turn overnight, but not equally. Appearances change from day to day; color is in constant flux. There are remnants of green; yellow, orange, red, to almost-purple leaves; and final brown.

PHOTOGRAPHERS are becoming increasingly aware of the difficulty of picturing fall color.

They are using different approaches, different ways of coping with the flamboyant disorganization of nature.

One fact to note is that between the seeing of a beautiful fall scene and the recording of it on film, the beauty may be lost. There has to be some interpretation on the part of the photographer in order to convey the feeling he got when he looked at the scene.

This interpretation may consist of what portion of the scene he chooses to shoot, composition, exposure, etc., or all of these. But, one thing is certain, just holding your camera up and shooting indiscriminately will not produce a photograph that tells the truth about the beauty you saw.

ONE WAY TO give more meaning to your fall landscape picture is to include the human element.

Including a person in your scene provides a point of identification for the viewer. In other words, a person tends to look at a landscape photograph and imagine himself in those surroundings. If there is actually a person in the picture, this identification is made easier.

The very nature of landscapes tend to make them rather static subjects. A creative photographer can make a landscape dynamic without putting people in it, but people help bring a feeling of movement to the photograph, to "pick it up."

Moreover, human beings in an essentially scenic picture can be used to create the illusion of depth and to indicate size relationships. In taking landscape pictures which include human figures, composition is an important factor.

If you are primarily interested in the scene itself, then your placement of the person or persons in the scene should be considered so that they complement it but do not dominate it.

LOOK FOR THE color of fall within a limited area. You don't have to travel far afield. Leaves turn within your neighborhood and in your own backyard.

Remember to look up and down. You will find color beneath your feet and overhead.

Also, don't limit your shooting to the time when color is at its height.

Prevention Week Marks Great Fire

Next Wednesday marks the 86th anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire — and the 35th anniversary of the special week which commemorates the terrible destruction by fire of one of the worlds' great cities.

Next week is Fire Prevention week, so proclaimed by President Eisenhower in the United States and by Governor-General Massey in Canada.

By tradition, both countries officially observe Fire Prevention week during that calendar week which includes October 9, anniversary of the Chicago fire of 1871.

THE OBSERVANCE actually started as a special day dedicated to "bringing before the public the much-needed lesson of fire prevention." Its original sponsor was the Fire Marshals' association of North America, now a section of the National Fire Protection association.

It was in 1920 that President Wilson issued the first National Fire Prevention Day proclamation.

GUIDING SPIRIT behind Arlington Heights' observance of this special week, past and present, is the fire department. Next week firemen will visit schools to give illustrated talks on fire prevention.

The national sponsor is the National Fire Protection association in conjunction with the International Association of Fire Chiefs, the Federal Department of Agriculture, the U.S. chamber of commerce and a number of other public service organizations.

IS FIRE prevention still "the much-needed lesson" the fire marshals thought it to be nearly half a century ago?

Last year's fire losses — the people killed and the property destroyed — provide the tragic answer: fire in North America in 1956 cost the lives of 11,100 persons and $1,385,000 in property.

Arlington Heights Lawyer Experiences Day in Court

An Arlington Heights attorney had his night in court and acted as counsel in defending himself on a charge of speeding 57 m.p.h. in a 40 m.p.h. zone in Palatine.

Police Magistrate Robert Cole Tuesday night found Attorney E. Allan Kovar, 431 Windsor, Arlington Heights, guilty as charged of speeding in Palatine and fined him $10 and $4 costs.

KOVAR WAS arrested by Officer Fred Hahn as doing 57 m.p.h. in his MG on Northwest hwy. between Forest and Elmwood.

Hahn testified he clocked Kovar at that speed and then floored the gas pedal of the squad car in order to overtake Kovar near Rhodes' appliances on Northwest hwy. between Palatine and Arlington Heights.

Kovar contended that Hahn had given conflicting testimony by stating he clocked him (Kovar) when traveling the same speed and later that Hahn had said Kovar's car was pulling away from the squad car when clocked. Magistrate Cole could not see the case Kovar's way in ruling on the matter.

WHEN ASKED by Judge Cole whether or not he had been arrested for speeding within the last year, Kovar replied that he had been arrested but found not guilty.

Judge Cole dismissed a charge of no driver's license on the person when Kovar produced one in court Tuesday night. (AMP

Slate Construction of New Grade School and Addition

Construction of one new K-5 grade school and an addition to an another K-5 school will begin later in the fall, according to Arlington Heights school authorities.

Contractors are now pouring over specifications and plans for the buildings and will submit bids for the project to the school board by October 29.

IN A JUNE 8 election voters of District 25 approved bond issues totaling $350,000 to finance erection of 7-room Windsor school and an addition of 4 rooms plus multi-purpose room to Ridge school.

The Windsor school will adjoin Miner junior high, at Dryden pl. and Miner st., which opened last month.

The 11 new classrooms are scheduled to open next fall.

DISTRICT 25 enrollment figures as of September 20 show an increase of 313 students over the number in attendance on September 21, 1956, noted Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh.

The 1957 figure is 3,364 students compared with 3,051 a year ago.

Clabaugh explained that the September 20 totals are used because of the large number of late registrations each year, this time numbering nearly 100.

Using figures for end-of-school enrollments, the increase this year was very close to the average increase of 323 students for the 6-year-period from May, 1951 to May, 1957. However the total of 3,364 was slightly less than predicted recently several months ago by school officials.

AND TO INDICATE how rapidly conditions can change, throwing enrollment estimates into confusion, district 25 officials thought, back in January, 1956, that nearly 3,700 would attend classes here by the end of the current school year.

Comparison of number of students in each grade for this year and the previous year show the bulging classes to be the first, second, fifth and sixth grades.

These 4 grades are from 48 to 95 pupils larger than last year while 4 other grades all gained from 14 to 22 pupils.

ONE CLASS is actually smaller than it was last year. Third grades number 324, exactly 20 fewer than in late September a year ago.

Oddly, one of the lesser jumps is in the size of the kindergarten class, up only 16 youngsters, from 605 to 621. Largest is in the first grade, up 95 from 331 to 426.

A final statistic and one to which no school head attaches particular significance: A year ago boys outnumbered girls in the school system by 85, 1,568 to 1,483; now the advantage has shrunk to 32, with 1,698 boys to 1,666 girls. (AF

Apprend Teen For Exposure

Arlington Heights police believe that a series of reports of indecent exposure were cleared up with the apprehension of a husky 15-year-old boy Tuesday.

The 180-pound youth was caught about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, a short distance from the spot on the northeast edge of the village where he undressed near some playing children.

THE YOUTH was turned over to county juvenile authorities.

Police said he had roamed through corn fields in the northeast corner of the village and for about 2 weeks eluded a crew of searchers who poured over the area after a similar report.

Police said he had not molested any children.

SGT. RAY JAHNKE'S 4 p.m.-midnight shift picked up the youth after a mother's telephone report. Assisting were Officers Lou Konier, Evert Lund and Philip Olszewski.

The boy lived in unincorporated Wheeling township, just beyond the northern limits of the village.

100-MPH Cable Hits Local Man

An Arlington Heights man was seriously hurt Sunday when he was struck by a sleeve target being towed by a jet plane landing at Glenview naval air station.

Joseph Grant, 49, of 645 S. Walnut, suffered a compound arm fracture and chest injuries. He is in Resurrection hospital.

GRANT AND A son with him were standing beside their car parked on Lehigh rd., north of the airport. More than a score of autos were parked there and windows of 2 were broken when the plane, piloted by Lt. C. W. Harley, 37, of Davenport, Ia., came in for a landing trailing the target on a cable. The release mechanism on the target had jammed but target pulled free after striking the cars and Grant.

Grant, a member of the village zoning board of appeals, is Chicago manager for a woman's magazine. (AF

Amateurs Earn $25 For Center

An Arlington Heights group of amateur actors billed as the Hickory Avenue Players earned $25 for the Northwest Community hospital center at a recent benefit performance.

THE YOUNGSTERS in the 800 block on N. Hickory ave. presented for the second year one of the low-budget spectaculars which has spread their fame throughout east side theatrical circles.

This one was an adaptation of a medieval legend entitled "King Arthur's Sword." Topping off the evening at the Harold Henry garage was a barrage of specialty acts during intermission.

Village Attorney to Seek Dismissal of Cop's Suit

Arlington Heights village attorney will ask a Circuit court judge Monday to dismiss a suit by a former village policeman seeking reinstatement to his position.

Village Attorney Stephen Jurco said a hearing on a village motion to dismiss will be held at 10 a. m. Monday.. Robert W. Keslinke, whose resignation from the police force was accepted in June, recently filed a petition asked for a writ commanding the village to reinstate him.

IN THE PETITION Keslinke charged he had been coerced into submitting his resignation. His suit claimed the dismissal failed to conform with rules of the village fire and police commission act.

Jurco said the Monday hearing will be decided purely on questions of law and no testimony will be given by either side.

Confederacy Capital

Montgomery, Alabama, was the first capital of the Confederacy. It was here that delegates selected Jefferson Davis, of Mississippi, as president of the Confederacy.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher received the village motion Thursday. However the hearing next week may be assigned to another judge.

Keslinke's attorney is William C. Moyer of Arlington Heights.

Consoer, Townsend Resign As Arlington Engineers

Another piece of flood-washed flotsam and jetsam floated into Arlington Heights village hall Tuesday night.

It was in the form of a letter from Consoer, Townsend and Associates, consulting engineers, asking that the firm be replaced as village engineers "at the earliest practicable date."

For 26 years Consoer, Townsend and Associates has designed all additions to village water, sewer and street systems and approved subdivision plats and virtually all engineering details on new construction.

AFTER THE record - high floods of July 12 and 22, which caused damage to businesses and homes estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, considerable criticism of the village engineers was heard publicly.

When it came to hiring engineers for a comprehensive survey of the needs of the village sewer system, the village board rejected their own village engineers.

Whether or not "Consoer and Townsend" were pointedly blamed for the flooding by the board (they weren't) mattere little. The firm interpreted hiring of an outside firm as indicative of a lack of confidence in their competence.

One sentence in a letter from Consoer partners Arthur W. Consoer and Carl H. Bowen cites, in somewhat obscure terms, the tiff over the sewer survey as the reason for the resignation.

THE SENTENCE reads: Recent circumstances relative to the assignment of engineering services indicate the advisability of such action."

In defense of their work, the partners had said they did make a number of recommendations for improvement of the sewer system over the years, most of which were disregarded. They also noted their firm was hired only on a job-to-job basis only for the entire 26 years and had never been put on a retainer basis.

Consoer and Bowen wrote that they would continue working on 14 current village projects and will accept new projects until a successor is named.

HIRING OF A full-time engineer to be put on the village payroll was authorized last year but one has not been obtained yet.

Consoers, Townsend and Associates Monday night signed up a new client for engineering services. The firm will make a feasibility survey for the DAMP water commission, a body studying ways to bring water into the northwest suburbs from outside the area. Arlington Heights is a member of the commission. (AF

Hospital, Church Sites Proposed for Annexation

Annexation of a 30-acre tract on Central rd., site of the proposed Northwest Community hospital and aan Episcopal church, was sought before the Arlington Heights village board Tuesday.

A similar annexation was begun a year ago but not completed because of a disagreement over waiving of certain fees for a part of the acreage proposed for residences.

The hospital board since has purchased the portion of the tract that caused the disagreement. The hospital owns about 26 of the 30 acres.

LEROY GAAR, 316 S. Derbyshire, presented the latest annexation petition.

The hospital has also asked the village to extend a water main to the hospital site. The cost was estimated at $4100 to $5600, depending on size of the main, by the village manager.

IN OTHER business, the board:

—Heard that a tentative plan for remodeling of the village hall would allow the police department to move to larger quarters in the west end of the building, to be vacated when the water, sewer and street departments move to their new building on Ridge ave.

—Was told by the manager that the appointment of a new police chief "from the standpoint of public safety and human reactions . . . is probably the most difficult position to fill." Applications will be received (one already has) "irrespective of residence or rank . . ."

—POSTPONED to October 15 a hearing on the rezoning of the southwest corner of Thomas st. and State rd. from residential to commercial after hearing both sides of the controversial case from a doctor objecting on behalf of the adjacent Northwest Suburban medical building and the owner.

—Received an invitation to tour the Whiting, Ind. refinery of Standard Oil next Wednesday as part of the observance of Oil Progress week.

A new practice was initiated when the Rev. George W. Kinchloe of Arlington Heights Presbyterian church opened the meeting with an invocation.

Cummings Is Elected Head Of Group

At its meeting last Thursday evening at Ridge school, the Ridge-Park Community association elected the following slate of officers to serve for the coming year: Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Cummings, 1115 W. Elm, co-presidents; Walter A. Nystrom, 1615 W. Oakton, vice president; Mrs. Russell Carlson, 636 N. Salem, secretary-treasurer.

THE REPORT of the civic affairs committee indicated the scope of problems which have been tackled by the group during the past year: opposition to the operation of the cement plant, speeding on N. Ridge avenue, race track parking, combatting the Dutch elm disease, defeating the proposed utility tax, obtaining better bus service, obtaining the rodding and cleaning of sewers and other flood relief, and disposal of leaves.

The dates were set for the next 3 meetings of the association: November 7, January 9, and March 6, at the VFW hall. (A Summer has about taken leave, so I think it's about time we gals got together and talked over the situation (perfume situation, that is). Gone are the summer scents of colognes and the lighter perfumes—come now the heavier, more subtle scents for winter.

Many new perfumes and colognes have been introduced for the fall and winter season, so it is about time we got acquainted with them. You'll have to admit that perfumes are the "secret weapon" of us gals, so let us not slight that department. New aromas and scents that will help Dad get his mind off that hard day at the office, scents that will bring heaps of praise from that "man in your life." Come into Harris Pharmacy and see the large selection we carry, a perfume or cologne to suit every occasion.

Say, don't forget, Harris Pharmacy is an exclusive agent for many of the better known brands, so make it your headquarters for perfumes and colognes.

by Ed Landwehr TV

Questions about TV tubes come-up often at Landwehr's TV & Appliances, and one of the most popular is, "How long should a picture tube last?"

A first line picture tube has an average efficient life of 3,000 hours according to latest electronic statistics. It will reduce 15% of its efficiency within 24 hours, and thereafter the viewing brightness will reduce so evenly that it cannot be detected by the human eye. We have had picture tubes with up to 5,000 hours of service that were still in operation, but it is surprising what difference there exists in viewing eye strain when compared with a new one.

This viewing strain should be avoided when you watch television daily. If your TV picture tube seems dull, let us check it for maximum efficiency. Phone CL 5-0700.

Arlington's Million Dollar Business Succumbs to the 'Cash Register' Era

by TOM BRENNAN

There's a business in Arlington Heights that takes in roughly one million dollars a year without so much as owning a cash register.

What's more, the business has no cafeteria, upholstered lounge for employees or parking lot.

You won't even find a coffee-dispensing machine half-hidden behind a knot of eager dime-clutchers.

If you haven't guessed its identity by now, you may as well learn that the "business" is Arlington Heights' own village government.

As can be gathered from the above brief description, the machine age — by some called the gadget age — hasn't quite taken over yet at village hall.

During the past few years the machine has made inroads, however.

Back in 1954 the newly-hired village manager brought in a dictating machine and along about then the village clerk was given a tape recorder, a mechanical stenographer which picks up most everything said (out loud) at village board meetings.

THIS YEAR mechanization is in full swing at village hall.

Village Manager F. R. Buechner and Finance Director J. Ward Wright, who was hired in May, are manning the "new broom," sweeping into the discard pile systems of record-keeping and doing business which are now outmoded and costly.

For example, when you buy a dog license now a clerk has to write out a receipt in long-hand, a time-consuming practice. And at the end of the day, the clerk adds up the receipts for dog, auto, business and sign permits and a dozen other sources of revenue before making bank deposits. This may take as much as 2 hours.

A CASH REGISTER is on order which will simplify both tasks and save hours — and dollars — for the village. The register will speed up payment of bills by eliminating written receipts and it will keep separate totals for 18 categories of payments. The keys on the register will be marked "Water," "Vehicle" and "Bicycle" instead of "Meat," "Groceries," and "Produce" as they are in a supermarket.

At the end of the day a village employee will press a few levers and obtain the totals in several minutes instead of laboriously working over an adding machine.

This example could be repeated many times over but it serves to point out what Buechner and Wright, together with the village board members, are trying to accomplish. They realize that only by modernizing time - honored methods — by replacing the hand-written ledger with the machine-processed ledger card — can village hall handle its increasing load of business.

A BENEFICIAL by-product of all the streamlining will be better "public relations" for the village, Buechner recently told trustees. There are now frequent jams at the counter in the clerk's office because of the cumbersome methods. These will gradually be eliminated.

Next year, rather than line up to get an application for a vehicle tag, fill out the form and line up again to pay for the tag, motorists will receive a 3-part form through the mail. You'll fill out all 3 parts, mail or hand them to the clerk together with your $5 and receive back a tag and one part of the card.

Last month the village board accepted the audit of village funds for the 1956-57 fiscal year, which ended April 30. Auditors Ernst and Ernst recommended a number of changes, including purchase of a cash register. Virtually all of the recommendations will be adopted over the next few months.

AMONG THE more important of the reforms, some of which are already accomplished, are combining some of the village's many funds, adoption of a perpetual inventory system on certain high value items, tightening up of purchasing control and keeping of comprehensive personnel records.

Institution of all these improvements will take time and effort but when the job is completed, "the village will have an efficient, modern administrative office with widely accepted procedures," said Wright. The shelf of accounting and municipal reference books behind his desk lent authority to the statement.

As to the audit of village finances, Wright concluded that the village is in a "solid position."

EVIDENCE OF THIS is the impressive sum put into capital improvements during the fiscal year and a healthy increase in the net income from water and sewer operations over the previous year.

During the year these capital outlays were made: water and sewer works, $116,708; off-street parking facilities, $234,942; and fixed properties, $157,111. Of the third of these, $147,229 went to build and equip the new north side fire station.

The three categories totaled $508,761, quite an investment even for a village of perhaps 22,000 persons.

NOT SHOWN in previous audits but included this time is the total bonded indebtedness of the village. As of April 30, bonds outstanding amounted to $1,364,000, of which $930,000 is to be repaid out of parking meter and water and sewer revenues and the remained from general taxes.

Other significant figures in the audit show a rise in water and sewer gross revenues of only about 6½ per cent but a jump in net income of about 70 per cent, to a record-high $97,000.

Rising costs of government are reflected is the audit as well as rising incomes. Miscellaneous sources of revenue, such as traffic fines, fees, license and permits yielded about $20,000 more than in the year before while among the major village hall departments supported by taxes (administrative, accounts and finance, police, fire and street), expenses topped the previous year by more than $60,000.

The audit will be summarized in a legal publication to be printed in the Herald soon. (A

Episcopal Church Lays Cornerstone Sunday

The Rt. Rev. Charles L. Street, Bishop Suffragan of the Diocese of Chicago, will officiate at the laying of the cornerstone of St. Philip Episcopal church in Palatine this Sunday. The ceremony will take place immediately after the 9 a.m. family eucharist. The new church adjoins the first unit, built on the corner of Wood and Schubert sts. in 1949. It is of contemporary design, employing lannon stone, gray brick and redwood, with beams of solid spruce. The architect, Charles Klopp, is a Palatine resident. Pepper Construction company is general contractor.

THE PARISH had its first building drive in the summer of 1953, and a second one in December, 1954. Contract bids were let early in 1956, and a mortgage was obtained this spring. Building began the first week of June and is scheduled to be completed by late December or January.

The present building committee is made up of the Rev. Sheldon B. Foote, rector; John L. Moodie, senior warden; Richard S. Pepper, junior warden; Emory Moore, building treasurer. Others who have been instrumental in forwarding the program are Raymond H. Henning, general planning; George Gschwindt, insurance; Quentin K. Ford, mortgage negotiations; LeMoine Stitt, legal matters; Mrs. George Gschwindt, head of the Womans auxiliary and its liaison to the committee.

ST. PHILIP mission was organized just 10 years ago this month, became a self-supporting parish in 1949, and now numbers more than 200 communicants, with an all-over baptized membership of 350. "The cornerstone laying generally reflects the growth of the Palatine community, and St. Philip parish is fortunate to be able to serve new needs here," said Rev. Foote.

Scout Troop Honored At Birthday Dinner

Wesley Parker, district executive of the Northwest Suburban council of BSA presented Boy Scout troop 166, sponsored by Holy Name society of St. James church, with a pennant for having the largest per cent of advanced scouts among the 132 troops in the council. Presentation was made at the second annual birthday dinner of the troop held in the school basement September 26.

More than 175 were served dinners, including numerous notable scouters and their families. Among them, in addition to Wesley Parker, were Raymond Woodruff, council commissioner, Father Lane, Albert Rose, Edward Weirich, committee men and scout parents. (A

LITTLE BILL says:

6¢ a load is all you pay— to dry the clean electric way

An electric dryer will dry this normal 8-lb. load for only 6¢—2 sheets, 3 bath towels, 4 hand towels, 2 men's T-shirts, 3 pillowcases, 3 children's dresses, 2 luncheon cloths. Drying time only 25 to 30 minutes.

Nothing's faster, nothing's cleaner— and electric dryers are completely automatic

$30 to $60 less to buy
than any other kind

A new electric dryer will wipe out your wife's weather worries on washday (and costs less to buy than any other kind).

And for just 6¢ a load, electric dryers give you the cleanest way to dry clothes. Clean, dry, radiant electric heat—like the sun—turns out clothes that are soft, sweet-smelling every time.

Fast, too. Today's electric dryers will dry a full load in 25 to 30 minutes. All electrics are fully automatic, nothing to light, no igniting devices to require service.

We think you'll be surprised when your appliance dealer tells you how little it costs to own a modern electric dryer.

PROMPT . . . COURTEOUS . . . DEPENDABLE SERVICE

A BABY-SITTING SERVICE is provided for the Tuesday unit of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters which meets at 9:30 a. m. Mrs. E. Gould reads to children while mothers relax with coffee and discuss judicial reform.

Election Laws Are Women Voters Topic

With the successful September meetings over, the League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights is now concentrating on the material to be presented at the October unit meetings, according to their president, Mrs. Gerald Chapman.

UNDER SCRUTINY by not only the Arlington League but the 9,300 members all over the state will be Illinois election laws. This comprehensive study has been labeled "Improvement of Election Laws and Procedures."

The Monday evening unit will meet October 28 at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Neill, 1115 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, and this will be the permanent home of this unit for the remainder of the year. The Tuesday morning unit with a baby-sitting service provided will meet, October 22, at the home of Mrs. E. A. Gould Jr., 204 School Lane, Prospect Heights.

MRS. CHAPMAN, League president, has announced that the Arlington group will take a "refresher" course on current election procedures, reviewing historical background and the reasons for the League's stand on the short ballot, permanent registration, single county election authority, absentee ballots, voting machines, codification of election laws, and other facets of the topic. This reexamination is being done with a view to finding out whether or not they can be improved in any way.

Chairman of the program to be presented to the October units is Mrs. John Solon. Her committee members include Mrs. John R. Vork, Mrs. John Crawford, and Mrs. Frank Neill who will slant their material to evaluating the responsibility of the citizen as a voter. One question to be discussed is whether or not voting in a primary restricts one's freedom as a voter. There will be a general discussion on all points covered. Mrs. Leonard Castle is State Agenda chairman.

ALSO TO BE discussed will be one of the State Continuing Responsibilities. Mrs. Stephen L. Caruso will present the first of these responsibilities, Protection of the Citizen in his Civil Rights and Liberties including: a. Preservation of Constitutional Liberties, b. Protection of Minority Groups against discrimination, and c. Enactment of a law to equalize employment opportunity in Illinois.

Mrs. Robert Southard will speak briefly on United Nation's Day, October 24th, and will outline what the local Laegue has done to make members of the community aware of this peace-making body.

This Week with PTA

Blast-Off

With fission chambers roaring at full power, space ships have been launched from 7 schools in the race to "membership moon." Each parent membership adds another boost to the upward flight. Keep the rockets fueled by sending in the family fee of one dollar.

Theme of the PTA membership drive is "Destination: Membership Moon." A large poster in each school depicting rocket ships soaring to the moon records the success of each room as parents return their membership envelopes.

The drive ends Friday. Cash prizes will be made to classrooms achieving 95 per cent membership with a grand award to those rooms having 100 per cent.

Safety for Bike Riders

Parents are asked to take advantage of the semi-annual bicycle inspection by making sure that all children ride their bikes to school next week.

In cooperation with the Arlington Heights police department, the PTA safety committee will be on hand to check for faulty brakes, loose wheels or steering gear, lack of signals, either horn or bell, and defective lights, if the child is allowed to ride at night.

Satisfactory fulfillment of these requirements is necessary before the child can purchase a bicycle license, which is required by law. Parents are urged to see that the children's bicycles are in good condition to pass these requirements before next week.

Schedule of inspections is as follows: Monday, Oct. 7, South Junior High, 9:30 a.m. and Park school, 1:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. Westgate school, 1:34 p.m.; Westgate school, 9:30 a.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 9, North school, 9:30 a.m. and Ridge school, 1:30 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 10, Miner school, 9:30 a.m.

After the bicycles have been inspected, reflective tape will be applied to help safeguard children riding after dark.

Working Together at Miner

Addressing a large group of parents at the first PTA meeting of Miner school last Tuesday evening, Robert Campbell, principal, spoke about some of the traditions he hoped the teachers and parents might build together at this new school.

In pointing out that both parents and teachers realize it takes considerable length of time to develop satisfactory relationships, Mr. Campbell stressed the importance of keeping the line of communication open between the home and the school. "As the PTA gathers us together and we get better acquainted, we could be better parents and teachers as we learn to work together for the welfare of the children," he said.

South Junior High Objectives

In setting forth the aims of the school, Todd Fouty, principal, declared that there can be no standing still in this period of growth in a child finding his way to adulthood. Teachers must be trained to stimulate the pupil according to his ability and create a spirit of competition.

The following representative panel of teachers explained the objectives in their fields: Miss Joan Peterson, language arts and social studies; William Harner, mathematics; Albert Wangles, science; John Cooper, physical education; and Joseph Tomlinson, activities program.

Words of Encouragement At Westgate

"We have all the ingredients it takes to achieve the traditional ideal—the development of each child to his highest level. We have intelligent children, well-qualified teachers, an adequate budget and an active parent organization." These words, spoken by Mrs. Helen Castor, principal, were music to the ears of the parents gathered for the first PTA meeting at the new Westgate school.

Parents also enjoyed a tour of the building, which is a kindergarten through third grade school, having a capacity for 210 pupils with 198 now enrolled.

Bridge Schedules Ready

Schedules for the round robin bridge tournament have been prepared and will be mailed soon.

Play will begin in October with 28 couples in the women's afternoon session, 16 couples in the women's evening and 24 couples in the mixed evening groups.

The registration fee will be payable to the October hostesses.

'Desk Set' October 24-26

A successful Broadway play later adapted as an amusing movie, "Desk Set," will be presented as the first PTA ways and means project. The Village Theatre production will be given on 3 nights, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 24, 25 and 26.

Starting tomorrow, tickets will be sold by room mothers. (A

DAMP Hires Its Water Engineer

The DAMP water commission took its first official step Monday night, 7 months after it was commissioned, by unanimously selecting Consoer Townsend and associates as the engineer to draft a feasablity report on the best way to obtain water.

The water commission was set up early this year by the city of Des Plaines and the villages of Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights and Palatine to determine the area's future water needs and requirements.

A VOTE WAS taken by the 5 commissioners following a 10-minute closed door committee hearing at which time the relative merits of the 4 prospective engineering firms were discussed.

Consoer Townsend and associates will be asked to determine the costs, requirements, and problems for 5 possible alternatives.

They are: 1, obtain water from Lake Michigan themselves; 2, acquire water from west suburban communities already planning to get water in Lake Michigan; 3, acquire water from the city of Chicago with the commission installing its own water mains; 4, acquire water from Chicago with Chicago installing the water mains; and 5, the current water mains; and 5, status pro or the situation if communities continue to use artesian wells.

THE FEDERAL home and housing agency will provide engineering survey funds. If the project is realized the commission will repay the federal agency. If the plan falls through there will be no financial obligation on the part of the commission. (AMP

Hanover Housewife Stalks From Court in Road Hassle

(CNS) — A Hanover township woman, feuding with the Illinois Toll Highway Commission, turned her heels Monday and walked out on a judge, apparently contending she didn't recognize his jurisdiction.

She is Mrs. F. A. Zeller, owner of a 300 acre farm who received $30,000 last year from the toll road commission for right-of-way across her land.

"NO MATTER WHAT you do, we're going to repeal," she admonished Judge Donald S. McKinlay of Cook county Superior court.

Amazed spectators watched her stroll out of the courtroom.

The fireworks was over the toll road's offer to pay $300 for 6/10 of an acre of the Zeller farm. It's needed for a drainage ditch along the turnpike, said James Culbertson, special assistant attorney general handling toll road condemnation cases.

A week ago Mrs. Zeller told Judge McKinlay the toll road should pay more because she contended the planned drainage system would flood a lot of her land.

AT THE TIME Judge McKinlay took time to explain:

"You're entitled to any damages you and your engineers can prove before a jury. But now is not the time to prove damage or be compensated for possible damage. It has to happen first. And that's the time to come to court to seek adequate compensation for damage."

He informed her that in a condemnation case she could have an appraiser say the land is worth $10,000 but that the toll road commission could turn around and tell a jury the land is worth not the $300 offered in pre-trial but "perhaps $200 or even only $100."

"Oh, they wouldn't do that," Mrs. Zeller said in disbelief.

"Oh, yes, they could," the judge retorted. "You don't know these cases like I do.

"What's offered outside court doesn't necessarily have to be introduced in evidence in court. Their offer now may in fact be a very generous one."

WHEN MRS. ZELLER returned Monday, she still didn't agree.

She insisted she was entitled now to extra compensation for possible flood damage.

When she gave the court the air, the judge set Tuesday for trial.

It was held — but without Mrs. Zeller.

The $300 offer was approved and the toll road commission was routinely instructed to deposit the cash within 180 days with the county treasurer where it will stay until Mrs. Zeller claims it.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB PADDOCK

WE DON'T PRETEND to be experts on the world series, but here are the thoughts of Mort Leve of our staff as to why the Braves will beat the Yankees in no more than 6 games . . .

Too much importance is being placed on past performance and the "monster" tab placed on those fabulously-successful New York Yankees. With a battery of polished, high-pressured New York area baseball writers singing a tune of superior strength a close look at comparative abilities of the 2 teams places the pendulum definitely toward the Braves.

The Yankees cannot come up with any power comparable to that available up and down the Milwaukee lineup.

There's a doubtful physical-status Mickey Mantle and Bill "Moose" Skowron, really their 2 best hitters this year. Everyone will expect another fine series performance from Yogi Berra, but can he repeat on his 1956 heroics? He had a bad season this year and there are definite "over-the-hill" signs showing on the catcher who has been a veritable iron-man behind the Yankee plate for the past decade.

Mathews figures to be a big gun in this classic. The Yankee short right field barrier is made to order for the muscular third sacker and a quick jump in victories in New York should pave the way for the Braves.

Pitching is not deep on either squad when you get past a couple of top notchers for each . . . Warren Spahn and Bob Buhl for the Braves, Southpaws Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz for the Yankees. We can't expect the "impossible" perfect game from Mr. Larsen or the shutout from Mr. Kucks. However, an elongated whip pitcher like Mr. Conley of the Milwaukeeans may prove the Series prize hurling package, and in-and-outer Mr. Burdette could "jell".

Milwaukee is not an inexperienced one-time shot. Fred Haney has a ball club in its prime, with everything to win. They definitely should not "choke". And don't think the faithful Brave followers don't help spur the boys on. We will go with Milwaukee in no more than 6—and don't say we didn't tell you so.

HIRING OFFICIALS is not always as easy as it sounds. Here's a brief rundown on how the men who'll officiate the Hardwood Holiday basketball tournament at Arlington the end of December were selected. Names of 8 possible officials were put in pairs by coaches. The pairs were then numbered 1-4 by drawing numbers from a hat. The pairs were then contacted in order.

First pair was unavailable because 1 of them had dropped out of officiating. A member of the second twosome was already hired for the Elgin tournament.

Third pair was already signed for a game at University of Detroit that weekend. Other pair, Clarence Blubaum and Wendell Burckhard of Aurora, was available and has been hired. Going rate for officials in such a tournament, by the way, is $25 per night for 2 games. Tourney Dec. 27 and 28 will include Wheaton, Niles, Leyden and Arlington.

CHICAGO CARDINALS will quarter-back a membership drive to help build a unique community for mentally retarded children called Little City. They want football fans to help carry the ball for those children by becoming honorary members of Little City, Inc. Honorary memberships purchased at $25 each will not only help build Little City but will entitle each new member to a pair of football tickets to one of three Cardinal football games, including good seats for the Cardinal-Bear game, an annual sell-out, said Ben Sears, chairman of Little City, Inc.

The Cardinals themselves will carry the ball for Little City when they play against the Cleveland Browns (October 27), the Chicago Bears (December 8) and the Pittsburgh Steelers (December 22).

Little City is designed to be a full-scale community providing 500 mentally retarded children with a permanent home for the rest of their lives, medical treatment and education. Sponsors of the project have already raised $45,000 with which they purchased a 60-acre tract of land on Algonquin road, near Rolling Meadows. But there is an urgent need for funds to put up the buildings on this land, said Sears.

PADDOCK CLASSIC Traveling League has become the "fastest bowling league" in the suburban area in its third week of operation . . . Over 53% of the bowlers of the loop now average 180-plus, with 3 of them in the 190 bracket . . . If there is any faster loop in the suburban area outside of Chicago we'd like to hear of it . . . Top team in the Paddock loop is Des Plaines with a 930 average . . . And to prepare for the future a match between "Jr. bowlers" of 2 of the houses had team games of 823, 835, 850 and 879.

Boys voted with the 3 tying . . . LaGrange harriers have a record of 80 wins in 87 starts over 10 seasons while winning conference, district and state competitions, including state title the past 2 years.

Despite Maine copping 5 WSC titles, and Hinsdale 4, LaGrange won enough also-rans to win the president's cup last school year.

Here are the final points: LaGrange 44½, Maine 47½, Arlington 49½, Hinsdale 54, York 55½, Downers 63, Glenbard 70 and R-B 83 . . . JV football coach Bob Ehrhart at LaGrange can pole vault 14' 6", almost made the Olympic team last year . . . Kankakee coach Earl Jones has decreed permanent ban from all sports for balance of rule-breaker's high school career as penalty for smoking and drinking . . . Starting lineup at Northern Illinois includes Herb Ward of Ela-Vernon at center . . . DeKalb cross country team is rolling along, with plenty of help from Bill Schram and Paul Clauss of York . . . One of the 2 lettermen for cross country at Southern Illinois is Robert "Santa" Clauss of York.

Among frosh grid candidates at Grinnell are Glenn Dierking and Wayne Langguth of Fenton, Mike Cromie of Grayslake, and Jack Woods of LaGrange.

Among 68 bands and 5,000 musicians attending the Northwestern game against Oregon State this Saturday will be units from Arlington, Palatine and Fenton high schools . . . Hinsdale a Must for Card Gridders

Scouting the Enemy

Hinsdale, Arlington's crucial opponent Friday night, is . . .

- Big, very strong defensively, speedy backfield
- At halfback, Wallberg and Kalicki, both scatbacks with plenty of inside and outside running ability.
- At fullback, Carmiginani and Wenaasm latter a big man, former alternating at halfback when needed, played full in '56.
- At quarter, Przybyla, capable, good passer, good size.
- At ends, Dunlap and Triptow, both big, latter 1 of returning lettermen.
- At tackles, Walton and Keller, both big boys.
- At guards, standouts, including Climenti, was center in '56, now a guard.

DENNIS THILL is a steady performer at fullback for Arlington gridders, a man capable of going both ways for Coach "Bus" Ormsbee. Dennis saw action at varsity quarterback the past 2 seasons, can fill in when necessary. He's a trieky runner when loose, stands 5-8, weighs 158.

Soph Spirit High for Imps Game Friday

The flu bug may make the decision in the Hinsdale-Arlington frosh-soph football game Friday night on the Heights field. Five regulars were slowed down in last week's game against York, with 9 out Tuesday of this week, according to Coach Bill Beckman.

Arlington is undefeated in WSC play. Hinsdale lost to Glenbard, but tied La Grange, rated the toughest in frosh-soph division. Whether the young Cardinals can continue their winning ways remains to be seen, with the flu taking its toll at every school.

OUTSTANDING play by both Art Nyblin and Dan Striegel was evident against York last weekend. Dan had been sick much of the week, but looked strong in Saturday's game. Art's quick action of nabbing a ball that had squirted from the quarterback's hands brought the first Heights TD after a 50-yard dash.

Passing attack of the young Cardinals has improved from earlier games, with Rick Johnston and Carl Massa making key snags. One of Massa's catches resulted in a TD with one of Johnston's catches leading to another score.

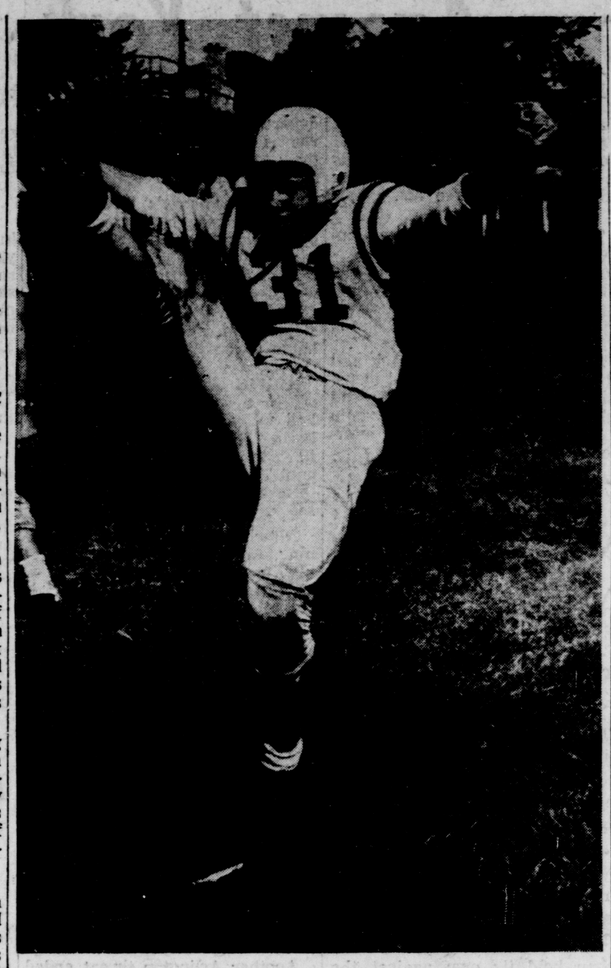
JOHN LOPATA ran well from the fullback position. Howard Garrison's defensive end play has improved. Team effort is tops among the locals, and is No. 1 reason for the victories thus far.

A couple of positions could be stronger, though, and there may be a couple of changes in that starting lineup before game time at 6 p.m. Friday. (Sp



AL SANDER has been doing a good job as outside linebacker for the Arlington Cardinals this fall, a rugged player with fast reactions, a man who loves defense. He also sees some action at fullback on offense. Al punts at times, stands 5-10, weighs 175, and is a junior.

Cards Must Be Back in Form After Letdown

The games that will separate "the men from the boys" for Arlington high school gridders start this weekend when the Cardinals will play host to Hinsdale under the lights. It will be homecoming for Heights students, with coaches hoping school spirit will help the gridders over the hump for winning this crucial tilt against the Red Devils.

Cardinals have beaten Leyden, Riverside-Brookfield and York, with the latter 2 easy contests looking good on the record hardly indicative of what the locals can do against the powerhouses of the WSC, Hinsdale, LaGrange and Maine.

THE CARDS will travel to Maine October 11. They'll meet LaGrange Oct. 25. If the Ormsbee men are going to go anywhere in the league they'll have to cop at least 2 of these 3 games, with the Hinsdale obstacle the big one in setting the stage of the other 2, morale-wise as well as standings-wise.

Arlington can win against the Red Devils if all boys are operating 100%. Flu will undoubtedly hit some of the Heights regulars, but the same could be said for Hinsdale. Al Sander, outstanding defensive man for the Cardinals, suffered a lacerated chin in the York game, but is expected to be ready for more action Friday night.

THE GAME WILL BE won in the line, according to most observers, as both backfields are about even in speed. Homecoming crowd could be the largest of all time with both teams sporting undefeated records. Heights had an obvious letdown against York, but coaches hoped their boys can return to form Friday. (Sp

Bears and Cards Win Arlington Midget Grid

Bears beat the Packers, 13-7, and Cardinals whipped the Lions, 20-7, in light midget football program of Arlington Heights park district competition. This week it will be Packers vs. Cardinals at 9:30 at Recreation park, followed by Lions vs. Bears.

There still aren't enough boys reporting for midget football who weigh over 105. All boys in 6th, 7th and 8th grades living within the park district are eligible. They must practice, though, before recreation director Dick Ault will schedule games. Ault is anxious to get the heavyweight program under way Oct. 12 if enough boys report by this Saturday, Oct. 5.

THE BEARS gained first blood Saturday, Sept. 28, against the Packers when a pass from Roy Woodruff to Ricky Wallerman in the second quarter covered 30 yards for a touchdown.

Jim Basak intercepted a pitch out from Bears quarterback Woodruff and ran 60 yards for the TD. Rusty Walters ran the extra point. A pass from Woodruff to Steve Cournoyer for 35 yards brought the Bears another TD on the final play of the game. Bob Cordaro ran the extra point.

SECOND GAME found the Cardinals scoring in the opening period when right halfback Jerry Totzke ran 30 yards around left end. He did the same thing in the third quarter for 60 yards on a pitchout with Bob Silken running the extra point. Jerry came through a third time the final period on a 20-yard pitchout with Jerry Lind running the extra point.

The Lions scored in the final frame when Mac McKenna ran 60 yards around right end with Bob Bohac running the extra point. (Sp

Few Reserved Seats on Sale

There are still a few reserved seats left for the Hinsdale game at Arlington Friday night.

That was evident Tuesday morning as John Schaff, business manager of Arlington high school, shuffled the few ducats left for fans for the homecoming game.

THESE SEATS are among the best in the house. They can be gain of 233 yards compared to purchased at the business office of the high school for $1.35 each. Ducats will enable fans to come as late as they wish, yet secure a good seat.

The game Friday will put 2 undefeated, league-leading squads against each other in the varsity game. Arlington is also undefeated in WSC competition. Hinsdale has a loss and a tieto date.

EXTRA FEATURES at Friday night's game will include drawing for the game football by the aebetween halves of the varsity contest.

Homecoming queen, her court, and prize winning floats will all be presented between the 2 games as part of the homecoming celebration. The queen will toss out the game ball to start the varsity contest. (Sp

Elk Grove Trips Prospect Heights In Softball, 12-2

The heavy hitting of Elk Grove's Loersell was too much for the Prospect Heights lads, 12-2, in softball.

Loersell led the Elk Grove attack on Bozovski and Vaughn with a single, triple, and two home runs. It was one of the finest displays of hitting ever seen in conference play.

Robb of Elk Grove turned in a beautiful job of pitching by holding the Prospect Heights hitters at bay with only 4 hits. Luedke led the losers with 2 singles while Dennis Bozovski slammed a triple to provide a little bright light in a losing cause. (Sp

Northbrook Plans Biddy Basketball

Plans are underway to introduce the basketball counterpart of Little League baseball to Northbrook-- Biddy Basketball.

Comparitively unknown to this part of the nation, the "small fry" cage novelty has caught on very successfaly in the East and South.

Jay Archer, national commissioner, and originator of the cutdown version of regular basketball, headquarters in Scranton, Pa., and the annual World Series is held at Atlantic City, N.J.

BIDDY BASKETBALL uses portable basketball standards with a basket height of 8½', as compared to the regulation 10½', and the ball is 29" in circumference, two inches smaller.

The program is tailored for boys 8-12, and no boy over the 5', 6" height is eligible for play.

Time of games is also cut down and rules stipulate the use of younger boys interspersed in the lineups to give everyone a chance to play.

Other communities interested in further details of the program can write directly to Archer, 601 Brooks Bldg., Scranton, Pa. (Sp

Arlington Varsity Takes 3rd Victory Against York

Despite a relatively poor showing, Arlington's Cardinals had enough punch to whip a hapless York team, 26-6, at Elmhurst Saturday. It was the third victory in a row for the Cards and their second in WSC play.

Arlington scored twice in the first quarter and twice in the final period, yielding the Dukes' tally in the second frame.

THE CARDS' backfield took turns scoring, with Berg, Thill, Mors, and Grey each scoring a 6 pointer. York's quarterback, John Archer, proved to be the Dukes' only consistent threat as he led the 2nd quarter march and personally went over for the score.

After one half of so-so play, the Cards' line stiffened to hold York to a net gain of 12 yards in the second half, 10 on the ground and 2 in the air.

THE STATISTICS were lopsided in favor of the winners. Arlington registered 15 first downs while York got only 6, 5 of which were in the first half. The locals showed a net gain of 296 yards while holding the losers to 77.

Arlington's passing attack fell off considerably, compared to the Riverside-Brookfield contest. The unbeaten Cards completed only 4 of 13 passes and had 2 intercepted.

York was no better in the aerial department. Duke quarterbacks went to the air 12 times, hitting their targets only twice and having 2 passes intercepted.

Coach Ormsbee's eleven fumbled 3 times, twice losing the ball. York fumbled twice, losing the ball once. The 2 teams were fairly even in penalties. The whistlemen walked off a total of 45 yards against the Cards and stepped off 50 yards against the home towners.

HOWIE BERG got the Cards off to a good start after York had failed to move the ball following the opening kickoff. The fleet senior halfback returned a punt 70 yards behind beautiful interference, for the game's first score.

After such a prodigious beginning, Arlington fans were expecting another 51 point outburst. This, however, failed to materialize, as the Yorkmen battled the Cards practically even in the first half.

ARLINGTON'S second score came with approximately one minute remaining in the first quarter. Quarterback Tom Grey led an 81 yard Redbird march with some excellent running on keeper plays and options. Dennis Thill went over for the TD from 2 yards out.

York scored in the second quarter when Archer kept pounding out 5 and 6 yard gains on quarterback sneaks and keeper plays. He finally went over with 5:07 remaining in the half.

Another Arlington threat ended on the 10 yard line as the half ended. The Cards went to the dressing room perhaps a bit less confident than they had been at the game's outset.

AFTER A scoreless third period which saw 2 Arlington drives thwarted by a fumble and an intercepted pass, the Cards opened up again. The locals went 68 yards for their third touchdown, with a pass play from Grey to Richard Bader setting up the tally on the York 27 yard line. Berg went to the 6 and, after 2 short plunges by Mors, Grey went over from the one yard line. Weber's kick was good this time, and Arlington led 19-6.

Berg's interception of a York aerial set up the final 6 points. A 15 yard penalty gave the locals the ball on the York 25. Berg went to the 12 for a first down, and, on 2 successive carries, Mors went into the end zone for the touchdown. Weber again added the conversion and ended the game's scoring.

Although Arlington's dominance of the contest is further illustrated by the fact that the Cards were forced to punt only once, the coaches pointed out that the Birds left much to be desired offensively. Repairs were ordered prior to Friday night's important clash with Hinsdale on Arlington's gridiron. (Sp

York Frosh Blank Cards

Line no block, backs no run... that seemed to be the best explanation of the Arlington frosh 'A' football team's 28-0 whitewash by York Monday afternoon.

Heights yearlings failed to score a single point, and contained the winners only in the final period after they were sporting a 4-TD margin.

YORK SCORED the first time in the opening quarter on a 50-yard punt return. Young Dukes repeated on a 35-yard pass the same period. A 25-yard pass play set up the third touchdown the second quarter with the score a 5-yard dash.

A short pass and quick run for 55 yards brought in the final TD in the third quarter. That was the story for the young Cardinals.

SEVERAL CHANGES may be made in the starting lineup, according to Card coach Edward Aldrich. "We've had some boys in there who've had more weight but less desire. We have several positions open for boys who love to play football, and believe we can find them," said Aldrich.

Two of the changes will probably be Jerry Halverson from end to halfback, and Dick Leeper from end to quarterback. Heights has been well staffed at ends, and these changes will enable the frosh coaches to use all of the hard working ends at the same time.

Halfback spots appear well filled, too. Other spots will be up for grabs this week, with starting lineup for Hinsdale affair Monday very much up in the air. Bright spot this week is the return of Keith Grams to practice after a prolonged recovery. He may still not be ready for action against Hinsdale, though. (Sp

Arlington Frosh-Sophs Win Despite Fumbleitis

Arlington frosh-sophs overcame a malignant case of fumblitis to topple York's young Dukes 19-7 at Elmhurst Saturday afternoon. The locals again relied on a strong second half in grabbing their third win in a row and second in conference play.

TRAILING 7-6 at halftime, the Birdies scored late in each of the third and fourth quarters to sew up the victory. The unbeaten frosh-soph backfield fumbled 9 times, losing the ball 3 times.

The running of Mike Dundy and defensive work of Art Myblin were outstanding for the locals. Dundy got help from Tony Stavros and John Lopata, as well as Bob Leekley.

QUARTERBACK George Bork's 2 completed passes in 4 attempts paved the way to Birdie scoring in the second half.

All but 1:49 minutes of the first quarter had elapsed before either team had registered a first down. The locals finally moved to the York 39 before losing the ball on a fumble.

On the next play York's triple threat man, Jim Elliott, raced 70 yards to the Arlington 4 before being pulled down from behind. Three plays later York scored and added the extra point on a pass play.

ARLINGTON'S first score was somewhat of a fluke. York's Harold Daugherty, back to pass, had the ball pop out of his hands. Myblin grabbed the ball in the air and ran 40 yards for the touchdown. The conversion attempt was no good.

With time running out in the third period, Bork hit Rickey Johnston with a long aerial that carried to the York 15. Johnston fumbled but Carl Massa was there to recover for a first down on the 9 yard line. Dundy went over from the 7 to give the locals the lead for the first time in the game. He also added the extra point on a plunge, and the scoreboard read 13-7 Arlington.

A 46 YARD pass play from Bork to Massa was good for a third Birdie touchdown in the final quarter. The conversion attempt was unsuccessful but only 2 minutes remained in the ball game.

In the statistics department Arlington had 8 first downs to York's 5. The locals showed a net gain of 233 yards compared to their opponent's 90.

The Arlington line held the young Dukes to negative 18 yards on the ground in the second half. Only an 18 yard pass play allowed the losers to break even in the second half's net gain department. (Sp

WHEN PALATINE PIRATES upset Barrington's touted North Suburban champions Friday night it was the third time in more than 20 years that Palatine had beaten the Bronchos on the gridiron. Of the 3 this was the most decisive and the only time Palatine had beaten a top flight Barrington football team. While the Pirates ran up 26 points, it was the stout defense which decided the game.

Barrington was held to a running net of less than 50 yards and pass defense was good in spite of the fact that Bill Thorp connected on 11 of 22 attempts.

Palatine's lighter line more than held its own against the Bronchos and gained more of an edge as the game progressed. Palatine showed the results of an excellent conditioning program and played their third tough game in a row without an injury.

NORTH CHICAGO class stood out Saturday as the Warhawks took their second Tri-County victory, a 55-13 romp over Elmwood Park. This week North Chicago is favored over Mooseheart in a non-league game, Glenbrook rates a decided edge over Lake Park and Palatine, for the first time this season, is favored over Elmwood Park by a wide margin.

Fenton is the underdog at Dundee Friday night but buoyed up by a league victory at Lake Park, the Bisons might make it tough for the Cardunals.

After this week the show down in the Tri-County gets underway when Palatine meets Glenbrook and North Chicago on successive weekends. Glenbrook is not as fast a team as usual and Coach Walter Sherman is down in the dumps and bemoaning the weaknesses of his team. He does have a right to feel bad about Al Tinker who is out with his leg in a cast due to an injured knee. Tinker was the Northwest conference 100 yard champ last spring and his speed and drive from the fullback spot are badly needed by the Spartans.

THERE IS A LOT of enthusiasm in Northwest conference football this fall now that Glenbrook, along with Palatine and Fenton, is out of the league. The Spartans had won the championship 4 years in a row. Before that Palatine won in 1952 and Ela in 1951 after Barrington had taken 4 in a row and been shifted to the North Suburban. The present lineup has only Ela-Vernon with one championship, Grant with a clear title in 1945 and a tie with Bensenville in 1947, and Antioch with a first in 1942.

That Antioch win was when Dale Barnstable scored 74 points left end, and made all state for the Sequoits.

Lake Forest joins the league with a record of 16 wins, 1 tie, and 17 losses since they won a North Suburban championship in 1951. Warren, another new entry won the North Suburban in 1948 and since has had tough sledding with 10 wins, 3 ties, and 33 losses. Round Lake, the third new team in the Northwest conference, has 3 victories, 1 tie, and 11 losses in 2 years free lancing.

None of the 5 remaining Northwest schools has won more football games than they have lost the last 9 years. Ela-Vernon with 25-25-4 and Grant 27-27-6 have had an even break in wins and losses. Antioch's record is 28-29-3, Wauconda 18-35-2, while Grayslake in 5 years since they moved from the North Suburban has a 10-21-3 record.

Additional awards were made to Edward Nixson, 304 Ioka, Mt. Wildcats Host To uregon State

Oregon State, 1956 Pacific Coast champion and Rose Bowl participant, will provide the opposition at Northwestern's home opener at Dyche stadium Saturday Oct. 5, in the first meeting between the 2 teams.

A crowd of 35,000, swelled by more than 5,000 high school bandsmen from 68 Illinois high schools, will be on hand for the Wildcat's home inaugural. The visiting musicians will join with the Northwestern band in a massed demonstration on the field between halves.

The Northwestern band will be attired in new uniforms purchased at a cost of $22,000. The smart new outfits of navy blue with purple capes and West Point shakos will make the 125-man Wildcat band one of the best outfitted in the Big Ten.

THE GAME itself will bring together two teams with similar rags to riches records. Oregon State's drive to gridiron respectability began in 1955 when new coach Tommy Prothro led the Beavers from last to second place in the Pacific Coast standings and continued this advance with a title winner last year with a 6-1-1 conference record.

Northwestern launched its comeback surge last season under its new coach, Ara Parseghian, who brought the Wildcats out of the Big Ten basement with a 3-3-1 record and a sixth place finish. It was the best showing of a Northwestern team since its Rose Bowl winning squad of 1948.

THE BEAVERS invade the mid-west with a team built around 16 lettermen including 5 starters from last year's championship squad. Key player in the Oregon State attack is Joe Francis, 196-pound halfback, one of the outstanding players on the coast a year ago.

Francis is a strong, deceptive runner and also a fine passer. In the Rose Bowl game he gained 73 yards rushing and 130 yards passing for a net of 203 yards. He had a season rushing mark of 374 yards in 115 carries for a 3.2 average. (Sp

Northern Plans 2 Lineup Changes

Two lineup changes are in prospect for Northern Illinois University's opening conference game against Eastern Illinois at Charleston this Saturday afternoon.

Bruising Bob Budrich, 6'2", 230 lbs., will take over at one of the starting tackle spots as reward for his performance at Beloit. Budrich, an ex-Marine, who prepped at Chicago's Mt. Carmel, displayed the type of defensive work coach Howard Fletcher wants to see. Blocking a Beloit conversion attempt and playing a generally outstanding defensive game, Budrich teamed with tackle Alex Pikuza and the rest of the Huskie line in limiting Beloit to 61 yards net gain on the ground.

George Fowler, another ex-Marine at halfback, will be shifted to defensive end for Saturday's afternoon game at Charleston. Fowler seems to have recovered from a bothersome ankle injury.

Northern outfought a game Beloit College crew Saturday, 19-12. It was NIU's first win since the 1956 opener at Wheaton.

Singled out by Fletcher for special mention were quarterback Lou Flinn, of Princeton, with eight of 12 completed passes, 156 yards and two touchdowns, and end Jim Caldwell, who scored twice on Flinn's tosses. (Sp

Card Harriers Split at York

Arlington harriers gained an even split at York Saturday morning, the Card varsity winning, 24-38, but the frosh-sophs bowing to the Elmhurst sophs, 27-28.

Nehf of York finished first for the varsity in 9:44.5. Arlington's Ken Courter took second in 9:51. Krebs was third for York in 10:11.

From then on it was all Heights as Bob Taggart finished fourth, Ron Marks fifth, Bill Dodge sixth, John Anderson seventh, Ronald Schroeder eighth.

For York it was Blair ninth, Bartlett eleventh and Holm fourteenth.

FROSH-SOPHS match was a closie with Jansen taking first, Goldblatt third, Clos sixth, Hahn eighth and Topple ninth.

For Coach Bob Meissner it was Mike Field second, Dave Palmer fourth, Chuck Phelan fifth, Bob Johnson seventh and John Newhard tenth. If just 1 of those 5 young Cardinals had been able to move up just 1 position it would have meant victory for Arlington.

Other locals finishing early were Ken Dougan 14th, Bradley Blair 17th and Ken Anderson 20th.

Michigan State Off to California

Coach Duffy Daugherty's Michigan State Spartans travel cross-country this Saturday, Oct. 5, to meet a new opponent from the Pacific Coast conference — the Golden Bears of California — in NBC-TV's game of the week.

Michigan State, which has a 13-1 won-lost record with PCC teams over the past 11 years, will face the newly inaugurated split-T system at California under Coach Pete Elliott, who played against the Spartans as a Michigan halfback in 1946, '47 and '48. In its first start under the 31-year-old Elliott, the Golden Bears were upset by Southern Methodist, 13-6.

California's success this season depends on whether junior quarterback Joe Kapp can convert to the split-T formation. He has the size and strength to do well on roll-out runs and is also a fine passer. (Sp

Illini at Full Strength For Colgate Saturday

Illinois will go into its home-opening football game with Colgate Saturday at full strength, barring injuries in scrimmage this week. Illini suffered no serious hurts in the 16-6 loss at U.C.L.A., and should regain services of Fullback Jack Delveaux, who sat out the west coast game after having a cast removed from his right thumb which was broken early this fall.

"This team can win its share of football games this fall," Coach Ray Eliot said Monday. "We need to get rough, and eliminate our mistakes."

ACCORDINGLY, the veteran mentor called for sustained scrimmage this week. The team wil work "rough" every day through Wednesday, then taper off and await the invaders.

"We know we're in for another battle," Eliot commented. "Colgate has been pointing for this game since midsummer. And this happens to be a better Colgate team than we had expected to face."

Illini, too, will pull all stops in an attempt to gain their first victory of the still-young campaign. Although Eliot probably will substitute freely once again in an attempt to better evaluate his young material, changes won't be made Saturday if it is felt that they will weaken the team on the field.

ILLINOIS rolled up a big advantage in statistics in all departments against U.C.L.A., but was stopped deep in Bruin territory on 3 occasions in the second half – once by a fumble, twice by pass interception.

The Illini offense showed versatility and punch, with a good blend of passing, outside speed, and strength through the middle. The defense possibly was not as effective, but coaches believe that weaknesses can be corrected.

The game with Colgate will be only the second in the series. In 1916, the Raiders visited Urbana and defeated Illinois 15-3.

Norwegian Pupils Refuse To Acknowledge Columbus

by BILL DILLINGHAM

Columbus did not discover America. This is the impression one gets after reading Norwegian grammar school books.

The people of Norway, for the most part, are not clear as to just who Columbus was. The date 1492 is as unknown to them as Cracker Jacks.

"Christopher Columbus?" a Norwegian replied, "I think I have heard the name. He did something in history."

This answer is typical.

WHEN INQUIRING about Leif Eriksson, however, Norwegians are quite exact. He is the man who discovered America way back in the year 999. It happens, too, that Herr Eriksson was a Norwegian.

If a school child answered on his examination papers that Columbus discovered America, he would be marked wrong.

Norwegians think that all other peoples recognize Leif Eriksson as the first to reach North America. They are unaware that in most countries of the world, school children are given the name of Columbus as the discoverer of our land.

IN THE YEAR 999, according to the Norwegian point of view (strongly supported by historical records, incidentally), Olaf Tryggveson, then King of Norway, commissioned Lief Eriksson to go to Greenland where a small Icelandic community had established itself for the purpose of preaching Christianity.

Blown off course far to the west, he landed in America. He later returned and told his countrymen about the new continent.

Three years later his brother-in-law, Thorfinn Karlsefne, set out to establish a colony of 150 people there. They landed but did not thrive, claim Norwegian present-day history books, and returned to Scandinavia.

KARLSEFNE'S wife had given birth to a son. Named Snorre, he is claimed to be the first white man born on the American Continent.

This fellow Columbus, claim Norwegian history teachers, was just "cashing in" on a private discovery. (B12

Target Shoot At Maywood Club

Maywood Sportsmen's club, located on County Line rd., Elmhurst, will be host to the Illini Indian pow wow and dog feast Oct. 4, 5 and 6. The program opens Friday with a non-registered tune up, 50-16 yard, 50-handicap, and 25 pairs of doubles targets.

On Saturday, Oct. 5 the registered target events open at 10 a.m. 100-16 yard, 100-handicap, and 25 pairs of doubles. Saturday evening a costumed Indian shoot will be held under the lights. This event is 50 targets, using a mixture of shells, black powder, BB's, etc. and must be shot dressed in Indian head dress and covered around the body with a blanket. The gun must be fired with the blanket between the shoulder and the gun butt. The shooting will be from prone, kneeling, sitting, and standing positions.

Sunday, Oct. 6, will be championship day, same program as Saturday, except the costumed event omitted. Maywood has installed 4 new trap fields, making a total of 9 to handle these events. This shoot is next in importance to the Illinois State Shoot is open to non-Indian shooters, trophies being awarded to both Indians and non-Indians.

Contrary to the belief of many, there is no rule of correct speaking which forbids the use of a preposition at the end of a sentence. It is all right to say, "Where did it come from?" "What is the world coming to?"

Delay Action On New Plat In Elk Grove

County board has deferred action on a petition to approve a subdivision plat for the southwest corner of Dempster street and Mt. Prospect road in Elk Grove township.

The plat falls within the jurisdiction of the Mt. Prospect plan commission, but does not bear its approval.

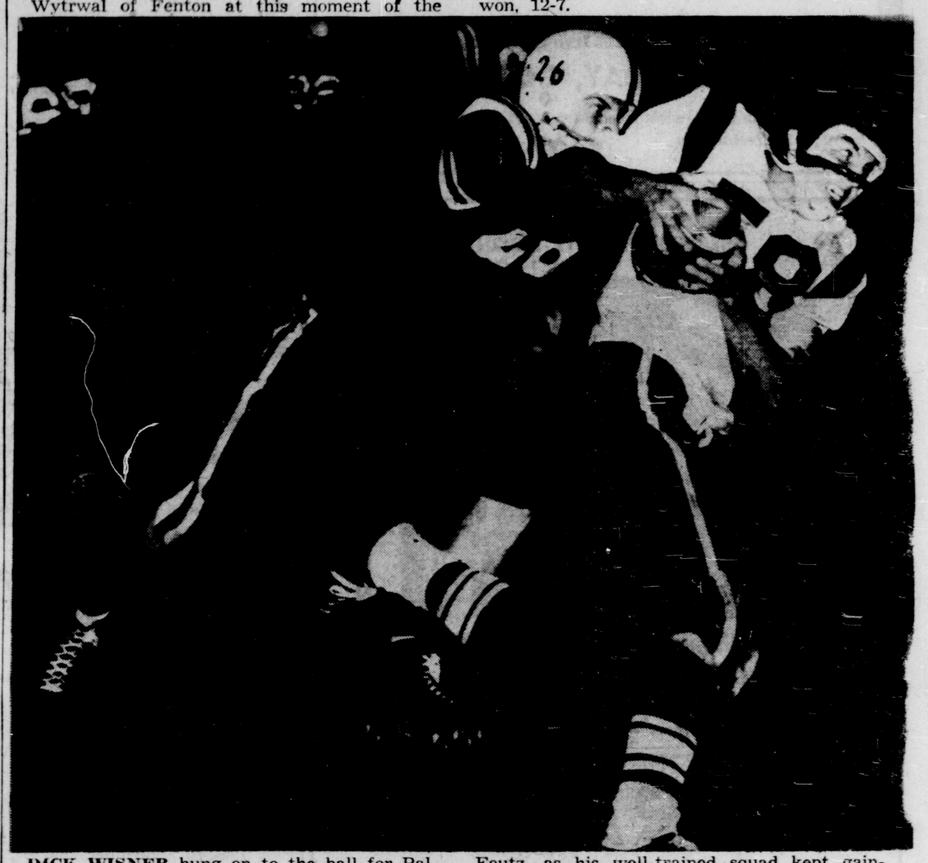
THE COUNTY map department said the plat meets all highway, zoning and subdivision regulations and recommended approval.

However, Commissioner Fred Fulle requested deferal to get more details from the Mt. Prospect plan commission. (ACM

NORM KELLER is determined to stop John Wytrwal of Fenton at this moment of the Lake Park-Bison game Saturday. Fenton won, 12-7.

DOM DIORIO could go no farther for Fenton, but the Bisons won, 12-7, over Lake Park Saturday afternoon at Itasca park. Norm Keller is pulling Dom to the ground with reinforcements of Chuck Christiansen (42), Gene Volkman (23) and Chuck Reeves (28) offering to help.

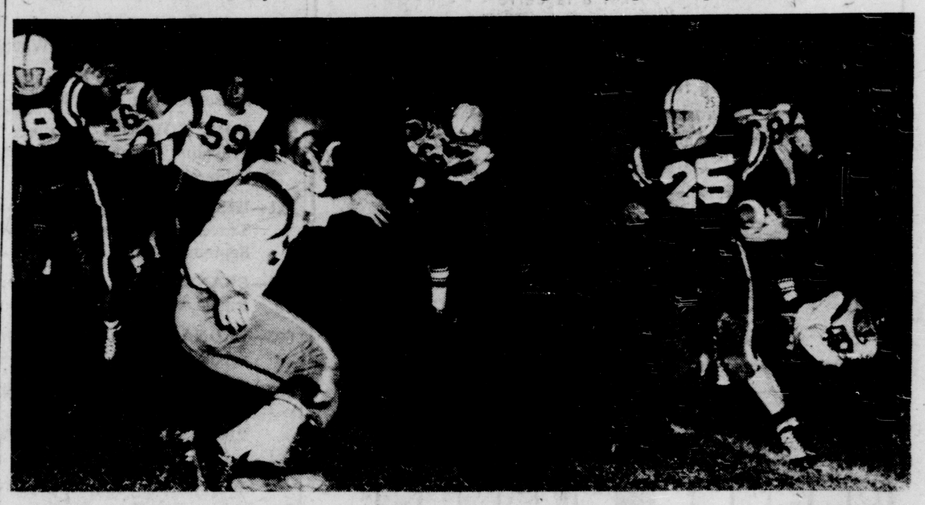
PLAYING AN outstanding game at end for Fenton against Lake Park last Saturday was Bill Kebbie, 6' 2", 175 lbs., senior.



DICK WISNER hung on to the ball for Palatine Friday night against Barrington, helping the Pirates upset the favored Broncs. It was another team victory for Coach Chuck Feutz, as his well-trained squad kept gaining momentum the entire second half against Barrington. That's Bill Bohatka (26) of Barrington trying to stop Wisner.

PALATINE WON against Barrington on the Pirates field Friday night, with Dick Wisner's determination here an example of the locals' determination to upset the dope bucket. Trying to catch Dick for Barrington are Jim Hutchings (68) and Bill Bohatka (26).

JUNIOR GUARD Remo Monfeli led the way for the Fenton defense from his linebacker position against the Lancers.



CHRIS HELLER (25) tried to go his own way for Barrington against Palatine Friday night, but Leon Biedrzycki (54) of the Pirates was there to stop him. Palatine won in a thrilling upset. Others seen for the Pirates are Jordan Danforth (46), Dan Lemanski (59), Bob Elms (64), Dick Wisner (58) and Don Larson (68). Trying to help for Barrington is Bill McCarthy (48).

Boy Scouts Launch Annual Fund Appeal

Final plans are being readied for the 1958 fund campaign for the Boy Scouts of Northwest Suburban Council.

Blackhawk scout district finance chairman James Doran, 3 W. Berkshire, Mt. Prospect, vice president in charge of sales, Sears Roebuck and company, announced that campaign personnel was all but completely recruited.

The following kickoff schedules are planned: Blackhawk district (Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Elk Grove) special gifts kickoff—district wide—North school auditorium, Wednesday, October 9, 8 p. m.

General campaign kickoff—(Arlington Heights, Elk Grove), Arlington high school gym, October 15, 7 p. m.; Mt. Prospect—Central school gym, October 15, 6:45 p. m.; Prospect Heights—Grade school, October 14, 7 p.m.

THE IMPORTANCE of scouting to the community was stressed by village presidents of Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights, by the issuance of the following proclamation:

"WHEREAS, October 15, 1957, to November 1, 1957, is the 45th campaign period for the gathering of the financial resources for the Boy Scouts of America in the Northwest Suburban council, chartered by the Congress of the United States, as a program for all the boys of America, and

"WHEREAS, the boy scout program has affected the lives of 26,500,000 American boys and men since 1910, and now has an active enrollment of 4,500,000 and

"WHEREAS, the movement, through its current theme, "Onward for God and My Country" dramatizes the purpose of the Boy Scouts of America and the rich heritage it has in this country, and

"WHEREAS, the Boy Scouts of America, is a great force for training youth in the right character and good citizenship;

NOW THEREFORE, we do hereby proclaim the period of October 15 to November 1 "Scout Campaign Days," and do urge our citizens to recognize the patriotic service being rendered to our community by the volunteer Scout leaders and to express their appreciation to the religious bodies, school organizations, veterans' associations, fraternal groups and service clubs which sponsor our cub packs, boy scout troops and explorer units."

LEADING CAMPAIGN personnel are as follows: Mt. Prospect Campaign Chairman Wm. MacKenzie, Carl Lund, A. E. Smedley, Wm. Demmert, Robert Spaulding, Al Larkus, Douglas Gomm, and Majors James Traversone, Ernest Gager, Bill Karlovitz, Don Johnson, Walter Busch, Donald Hanson, Arthur J. Sturgeon, O. M. Lynch, George W. Morris, H. W. Enszer, F. A. Holderman, E. Owen Elsley, Donald R. Smith, Fred J. Salken, Ralph Sandeen, Ted Miller, Robert Brooks, Edw. A. Michalek, Norman Gorniak.

Charles A. Hodlmair, chairman of the Arlington Heights and Elk Grove campaign, asked the people of the community to consider the following things when supporting the campaign: "The Northwest Suburban council scout program needs your gift now."

To operate 2 overnight camps—Dan Beard and Maden Powell for cub scout daytime activities and boy scout and explorer adventure—to operate Camp Napowan, the long-term camp for our scouts—to maintain, to rehabilitate and to expand these camps;

To provide year round program for 9,045 Northwest Suburban scouts in 220 Units.

To make available more than 60 formal training courses and hundreds of informal opportunities for 2,500 leaders who give thousands of hours to scouting;

To open Scouting to at least 1,000 more boys who want to be cub scouts (8-10); boy scouts (11-13); explorers (14-17).

Of 20,917 northwest suburban boys between the ages of 8 and 17—9,045 will be served by Scouting during the year.

THE VILLAGE presidents stressed that it costs only $11.50 per year to maintain a boy in Scouting, as compared to approximately $3,500 a year in a state correction home.

Chairman Doran reminds all cub scouts, boy scouts and explorers that they are requested to wear their uniforms during the first five days of the campaign period—October 15 to 19 inclusive.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The ever-present power of the Christ, Truth, to heal sickness and to destroy discord will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday, October 6.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" will include the following from Luke (13:11-13): "And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God."

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (142:31): "Truth is God's remedy for error of every kind, and Truth destroys only what is untrue. Hence the fact that, today, as yesterday, Christ casts out evils and heals the sick."

"...What a smart boy am I..."

Little Jack Horner just "stuck in his thumb and pulled out a plum." It was as simple as that! In our realistic world, rewards are not usually won so easily. It takes planning plus persistent effort. Smartest way to make sure of "pulling out plums" tomorrow is to start putting money into your savings account today.

Church Directory

A change in policy was announced this week for the Church Directory by Stuart R. Paddock, editor of Paddock Publications.

The Church Directory is a public service provided at no charge to all churches in communities covered by Paddock Publications.

"Because of increased production costs, higher newsprint charges, and the greater number of churches in our area, we must limit the length of church announcements," said Paddock.

Church announcements must therefore be restricted to the name, address and telephone number of the church and the name of the minister; and the time of Sunday and weekly services.

"This information is important to our readers," said Paddock, "but we must restrict use of the Directory from data which the churches could ordinarily be expected to transmit to their own members."

Our Saviour Church Is Host To Australian, Danish Pastors

Our Saviour Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, will be host Monday and Tuesday to 2 Lutheran pastors who are in the United States on Lutheran World Federation exchange program tours. The congregation has been chosen as a typical mission congregation, and the pastors, Rev. Leslie B. Grope of Australia and Rev. Kristian Kjeldgaard of Denmark, will be observing American church life with particular emphasis on the evangelism program here and in several other communities during a 2-month tour of the county.

During their stay in Arlington Heights, Pastors Grope and Kjeldgaard will participate in the evangelism mission planned for Monday evening, accompany Rev. John P. Petersen, pastor, as he goes about his daily work in his office and in the parish, observe a session of the junior confirmation class and attend a meeting of the church council Tuesday evening.

Pastor Grope, who was born in Australia, is pastor of Highfields parish, Queensland, consisting of the congregations of Highfields, Crows Nest, Glencoe and Meringadan. He is secretary of the Queensland district of the United Evangelical Lutheran church in Australia, secretary of the publication board, and executive officer of the youth department of his church.

The Danish minister is pastor of Samuel's church in Copenhagen and for 2 years was general secretary for the student Christian movement in Denmark. Both men attended the Lutheran World Federation Assembly in Minneapolis last month.

Included in the itinerary of both pastors while in the country will be New York City, Binghamton, Syracuse and Buffalo, N. Y.; Orangeburg, S. C.; Mansfield and Springfield, Ohio; Lincoln, Neb.; Chicago, and Indianapolis. In addition Pastor Grope will visit Denver and San Francisco before returning to Australia in November. (Ch

Ventriloquist To Give Program For Dads and Lads

The Dads' and Lads' banquet of Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church, Saturday, Oct. 5, at 6:30 p.m., will feature Ventriloquist Bob Bradford of Los Angeles. The program, to be held in Fellowship hall of the church, Dunton and St. James, will also have a program of music, and will present various features of the Awana Boys club's work.

Through the medium of voice projection, Mr. Bradford has characters speak, sing, play musical instruments, yodel and impersonate the voices of familiar people. Since 1951, Mr. Bradford has devoted his talents to full-time Christian work. Switching from the entertainment world to Bible conferences and Youth for Christ work, he brings with him years of experience in radio, stage, and television work.

Of special interest to adults is the section of his program devoted to the technical aspects of voice control and ventriloquism. Bradford received his training under the late "Great Lester" who trained Edgar Bergen and other leading ventriloquists in the entertainment world.

Tickets to the banquet are available by calling Pastor Charles G. Will at Clearbrook 3-1976.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

Daughter Christened

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lavers' young daughter, Pamela Lynn, was christened in the First Presbyterian church. Afterward there was a dinner at the Lavers home with several relatives present: grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lavers, and a great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hanson, all of Chicago. Mrs. Lavers' sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bauer of Park Ridge, who are to be the baby's sponsors, were also there with their daughter, Patty.

The Kermit McBrides were host and hostess with the Fred Webers at a cocktail party Saturday night for several of their neighbors who belong to the 100 Couples Dance club. After the party they went to the dance at the Nordic Hills Country club.

Vacationed in Michigan

Richard Platt is still talking about the wonderful vacation he had with his brothers-in-law recently. They went to Schlauters lake and Breakfast lake, located in the wilds of the upper peninsula of the state of Michigan, near Lake Superior. The men camped out, fished and cooked their own meals, minus all the comforts of home.

Ruth Platt, Vivian Hadden, Shirley Stevens, Peg Engelking, Flo Braunsreuter and Elaine Wheeler went to the Milk Pail for lunch last Wednesday. They enjoyed an afternoon browsing through the unique shops there.

Sympathy

Friends and neighbors of the Jerry Winters family extend their sympathy at the death of baby Laurell Winters Sunday.

There was a party Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sorenson in celebration of his birthday. Several neighbors were invited in for cake and coffee and also movies of their trip. The Broadfoots and Jensens showed movies of the recent vacation they took together.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Thill had a cocktail party for several friends Saturday night. The Richard Ekstrands were there, with the Bruce Nelsons, the George Krilcics, the Jack Searfosses, the Howard Trendls, the Robert Cummings, the John Mowatts, the Clarence Loechls, the George Lurtzes, the Robert Linds and Mr. Thill's brother and his wife from Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. John Thill. From there the group went to the 100 Couples dance at the Nordic Hills Country club.

October 1 was an important day in the life of Richard Wiegel, son of the H. W. Wiegels. He was 5 that day and had one of his friends for lunch. His family also had a celebration for him in the evening.

Here From California

The John Kanes are happy to have his mother, Mrs. Jack Kane Sr., visiting them from Berkeley, Cal. This is the first time she has visited them here in Arlington Heights. She expects to be here 2 or 3 weeks.

Chuck Read, son of the Bob Reads, came home from a week at Camp Reinberg, convinced that a week should have a minimum of 14 days. He went with his seventh grade section and stayed in one of the cabins there to accommodate school children for such projects. (A

Newcomers Golf

The golf tournament of Arlington Heights Newcomers club came to a successful close last week with a luncheon at Old Orchard country club where the games had been played during the summer season. Trophies were awarded to the following:

Flight A, Mrs. Donald Whiting; Flight B, Mrs. Earl Snodgrass and Flight C, Mrs. Robert Byrne. Mrs. Andrew Reed was chairman of the tournament.

The bowling season is in need of substitute players. Mrs. Ronald Luehrs at Cl. 5-7098 will enroll anyone interested at HiWay Recreation in Palatine every Thursday at 1 p.m.

The annual picnic and dance of the Newcomers Club of Arlington Heights has been postponed. The picnic was originally scheduled for October 5, at Deer Grove.

Anyone wishing information may call Mrs. Gordon Martin, at CLearbrook 5-8483.

Tickets for the fashion show to be held Wednesday, Oct. 30, at 1 p.m. will be obtainable at this time from Mrs. George A. Seyfert and her committee. This luncheon will be held at Rolling Green country club and will be open to the public if reservations are made. Mrs. Howard T. Johnson, Cl. 5-5831, may be called for tickets. (A

Nature Hike

Fourth and fifth graders of David Aylesworth's room took a nature hike through the north end of Elk Grove Busse forest preserve September 26. The forest ranger, who acted as guide, pointed out plants, birds and insects found there and also called the elk in to be fed by the children. Mrs. Ruth Grismer and Mrs. Margaret Currier provided transportation.

Forest View boys played baseball against St. Peter Lutheran school team at Forest View September 24. St. Peter's won.

Several classmates helped Joy Koenig celebrate her 16th birthday with a surprise party in her honor Saturday at the school.

The W. H. Grismer family drove to Baraboo, Wis., Friday for the day.

Secretary Ill

Mrs. Helen Garis, new school secretary, has been ill and in the hospital. For those wanting to send cards, her home address is 12 N. Home st., Park Ridge. Everyone wishes her a speedy recovery.

Q. For what uses only is the napkin at the dinner table?

A. For wiping the lips and the fingers. It is not for the cheeks, prspiration, or the nose. The napkin should be lifted as inconspicuously as possible, and lightly brushed across the mouth — and then replaced on the lap.

Q. Is it necessary to take a gift when visiting a friend in a hospital?

A. While not exactly necessary, it is quite usual for visitors to take something—maybe a few flowers—to their sick friends.

YMCA Fall Program Set for Teenagers

Adults and teen agers are now enrolling in the numerous fall classes and clubs which are beginning the week of October 7.

BALLROOM DANCING instruction is being provided by Mrs. Grace Hansen, one of the outstanding ballroom dance instructors in the Chicago area. Classes are held on Friday evenings at the Forest School in Des Plaines (directly behind Algonquin Jr. high school located on Algonquin road 2 blocks east of Wolf road.) There are separate classes for teen-agers and beginning adults and advanced adults. Specific dates and times may be had by calling the YMCA office (VA 4-4156).

ADULT BRIDGE CLASSES are held at the YMCA office on both Friday afternoons and Wednesday evenings. Men and women may also enjoy duplicate bridge on Wednesday evenings.

A merry "swing your partner" session of SQUARE DANCING will be held for adults on those Fridays on which there is no ballroom dancing instruction. Couples or singles will learn the dances from 8 to 9 and have open dancing from 9 to 10 p.m. at the Algonquin school cafeteria in Des Plaines. Tom Powers will call.

LOSE WEIGHT the 'Y's way will be the theme for an 8 week course for slenderizing and charm. Class begins Tuesday, October 22 and continues for 8 weeks.

Teens also have an opportunity to acquire and develop charm at the Teen Charm Course offered to Des Plaines seventh and eighth grade girls on Tuesdays from 3:45 to 5 p.m. and to Mt. Prospect girls on Wednesday sat 4 to 5 p.m. An entry to the city-wide Court of Queens Contest will be chosen from these groups. Class begins October 29 and 30.

A new and exciting course now being offered by the Northwest Suburban 'Y' is the Driving Instruction class. Individual instruction is given, registrants are picked up at their homes if desired and may make individual arrangements for instruction time to suit their own time schedule. Amateur Actress: Versatile, Lively

by BETTY BROOKS

When is an actress not an actress?

If she is professional, maybe never; but if she is a Village Theatre 'star', it may very well be when she is serving as wife, mother, cook, committee chairman, cub scout den mother, or even, as in Barbara Houskeeper's case, a very talented artist.

BARBARA, A tiny, vivacious brunette, will play the role of Sadel, sophisticated career girl, in Village Theatre Inc.'s "Desk Set" on October 24, 25 and 26.

She should fall into the type easily, for at one time she was just that, when working as a commercial artist and fashion sketcher. Now she lives with her husband, Harold, and their 3 children, Lee, 9, Ann, 7, and Kathy, 3, at 227 S. Bristol, but she has by no means settled down into a humdrum existence.

AT PRESENT she is studying painting once a week with Rudolph Pen and is a member of the Oak Park and North Shore Art leagues. She works in oils and water colors, doing pastel portraits of children and non-objective art. Some of her paintings will be on sale in the art booth at the Community Fair, to be given by the Northwest Community Hospital's Women's auxiliary on October 11 and 12.

After studying at Knox college, the Rhode Island School of Design and the Art Institute of Chicago, Barbara was employed as a craftsman for the United States Rubber co., doing war incentive posters and publishing a house organ. Next she devoted her talents to the display department of Charles A. Stevens and then to Crafton Studios Inc., which did fashion work for Carson Pirie Scott and Co., Stevens, and Martha Weathered, among others.

FOLLOWING HER marriage, before she became interested in painting, she studied arts and crafts and did weaving and ceramics, which were sold in a north side gift shop.

She came to paint scenery and stayed to act when she won her first role with Village Theatre as Cleota, the Negro maid, in "Male Animal" three years ago. Since then she has done the scenery for "Grandma Slyboots" in February, 1956, and will do the set design for "Jack and the Beanstalk" next December.

ALTHOUGH BARBARA had never acted before, she had certainly been provided with a background for it, as her mother had appeared in summer stock in Cape Cod. After her part in "Male Animal" she was seen again as the fairy godmother in "Cinderella" in 1954 and as Elizabeth in "Angel Street" in 1956.

Just to be versatile, she has also done publicity, costumes, properties, decorations, served on the board of Village Theatre, and been a member of the play reading committee for two years.

HER BIGGEST problem in all this time was the set for "Grandma Slyboots," which was given in the fieldhouse without benefit of curtain. In order to make 3 scene changes, she had to call forth all her ingenuity.

She achieved it by taking the audience in on the scene changing, such as having the wolf dance with the children in the audience while sets were being moved. All the furniture was painted on the walls. Benches in one outside scene were covered with quilts, then pushed against a painted headboard in the next bedroom scene. But she loved every minute of it!

IN ADDITION to all these things, Barbara has been active in church work, serving as chairman for St. John Episcopal church bazaar 2 years ago and doing the decorations for their fashion show at Sunset Ridge country club last fall. She is also in charge of the decorations for the Community Fair and has devoted a great deal of time and talent to her son's cub scout den.

Asked if there just wasn't something that she didn't get around to doing, Barbara had a ready answer. "Oh sure," she laughed, "You should see my collection of mending!"

She'll get that done too, no doubt. (ACM

Peddlers with vitamin "bargains"

Door-to-door salesmen, some quite respectable, are peddling vitamin preparations and offering a "bargain." They show you capsules with an impressive list of ingredients, then tell you they cost less than the established brands we carry. But it's like buying a pound of pennies or a pound of dimes. Wouldn't you pay a little more for the pound of dimes? Same with vitamins. It's the potency that counts. Potency is the only true measure. Magazine Cites Centex Homes

The Suburbanaire house, built by Centex Construction co., in Elk Grove Village, has been selected by Popular Mechanics magazine as one of 8 outstanding homes across the country in the publication's annual parade of homes features.

The October issue of the magazine said the basis of selection was good design and construction, livability and price.

THIS IS THE second time a Centex-built house has been chosen by the editors. Last year one of the company's homes in Dallas, Tex., was cited.

The Suburbanaire has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, and a total floor area of 1320 square feet. Architects were A. J. Del Bianco and Associates, Chicago. Price of the home is $19,950, including lot.

NOTED THE magazine:

"Features of this house are the big living room with sliding glass doors opening on a rear patio, 8 closets, large storage space in the garage and washer-dryer laundry that comes with the house."

Elk Grove Village when completed 5 years from now will contain 6,000 new homes. Several hundred homes are being readied for delivery this fall.

Home prices range from $17,950 to the top-priced Suburbanaire. All houses have attached garages and come with such extras as built-in oven and range, and disposal unit. (BB

Research Is Key to Small Business Success: U. S.

"Research for new products and processes is an absolute 'must' for the nation's 4 million small businesses and the key to their continued success in this technological era," Wendell B. Barnes, Administrator of the Small Business Administration, recently told the President's Conference on Technical and Distribution Research for the Benefit of Small Business.

The conference, the first of its kind ever held, was called by President Eisenhower to assist small manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in using modern methods and techniques for developing and improving their products and increasing their sales.

THE CONFEREES hope to develop a program so that small firms can determine what technical and distribution assistance and information is available, where it can be had, and how to use it profitably.

"The Federal Government traditionally has sought to create an economic climate that is favorable to all business," Barnes said. "It has tried to spread economic power among many independent business proprietors.

"While it is not the function of Government to do the work of business, it is our responsibility and desire, within the proper scope of Government, to assist small business to help itself.

"THE PURPOSE of this conference is to set the guide lines for small business in this new technological era. We can bring the laboratories of science right to the doorstep of small business that they may have the 'know how' of research in producing new products and services and in distributing them.

"The pace of progress," Barnes pointed out, "is" accelerating every day. The price of keeping abreast with progress is research. Technology is the modern transformer which can make the 4 million small businesses of this country a more vibrant and healthier segment of our national economy." (BB

Overseas Yule Mail Reminder

Christmas is less than 3 months away, but already postal officials are reminding area residents to mail their overseas parcels early.

Acting Postmaster Charles O'Hara of Palatine said that the postmaster general's office in Washington, D. C., has informed local postal departments of recommended shipping dates in order that gifts will reach their destination before Christmas.

PACKAGES GOING to the Far East should be mailed by Oct. 15. Those going to Africa and the Near East should be in the mail by Nov. 1, and those to Europe and Central and South America are recommended to be mailed by Nov. 10.

Owing to the long sea transit frequently involved in the transmission of parcels by surface means, a postal information leaflet reports, and to customs inspection and other formalities that parcels may be subjected to in the countries of destination, it is recommended that mailings be made as early as practicable to assure delivery by Christmas.

Nursing Home Day Set by Stratton

In a proclamation from William G. Stratton, Governor of the State of Illinois, he proclaims Sunday, Oct. 6, of the present year, as Nursing Home Day in Illinois. He urges all organized civic and patriotic groups, as well as individuals, to support the efforts of the Illinois Association of Nursing Homes and the Department of Public Health by reminding the patients of said homes, through personal visits, that we, as a great nation, regard them as an integral part of the citizenry.

This action was prompted by the increased number of elder citizens who are now being cared for in nursing homes and homes for the aged.

Governor Stratton feels that it is only humane that this civilized nation look to the general welfare and happiness of these older citizens who have contributed so much to the building of this nation. (B8

Admires 'Splendid Service'

Your invitation to the Suburban Problems Clinic was received this morning. I am extremely sorry that my calendar says that I will be out of the state from the middle of that week and until the first part of the following week. Consequently, it will be impossible to accept this opportunity.

May I emphasize the fact that in expressing my regrets I am not merely writing you some meaningless words. I have long been an admirer of the splendid service your publications perform in both acquainting the thousands of suburban residents, many of them newly arrived, of the problems that confront them and at the same time, suggesting wise and sound remedies.

Charles F. Chaplin, County Commissioner.

Wheeling's Drainage Problems

It is important to bring up the condition of the Wheeling drainage ditch which runs through the center of Meadowbrook subdivision in Wheeling.

For many months, it has been blocked with dead twigs, branches and other articles causing stagnant water to become a breeding spot for mosquitoes and perhaps bacteria flowing into the drainage from the sewage plant.

What could be a thing of beauty is unsightly and dangerous to the health of the community. It is also possible that if the drainage was not dammed up at various places, the recent flood waters would not have been nearly as bad as was experienced.

Several attempts have been made by homeowners to remove major obstacles for flowage, but it needs professional attention to thoroughly reach the settled debris.

This is a job for the Wheeling drainage commission and an important one!

Eugene L. Fogleman,
Wheeling.

DuPage Numbering 'Honors'?

In your feature column you mentioned Wood Dale as the first northern DuPage town to adopt the county number system for property owners.

Well, in case you didn't know, Keeneyville adopted the system last December.

Please apologize publicly.

Lorene Krause, Keeneyville.

P. S. No hard feelings.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Keeneyville is not an incorporated community, therefore it is within the jurisidiction of the DuPage county numbering system for unincorporated areas.

Surprised at Palatine Policy

For a Palatine paper, I certainly am surprised at the views expressed by you concerning the proposed highway 53-83 and the highway linking Palatine with Edens Expressway. In one breath you state you want to take the traffic out of Palatine and the next you propose bringing the dirt, filth, and fumes of two highways into the city.

It doesn't seem to matter to you that the residents on Rohlwing road and Palatine road, along which these highways are to go, have children which romp and play, and these highways will not exactly help these children's safety.

Granted, these 2 highways, as proposed, would cut a few minutes of travel time of a weekend vacationer to the lakes. Motorists could race through the heart of our city while we hoped and prayed our children wouldn't get killed. In a previous column, Mr. Paddock stated the residents along 83 in Prospect Heights needed relief from the traffic congestion, dirt, and exhaust fumes caused by this highway. Granted this is a bad situation and should be corrected, but why does your newspaper advocate transferring all these fumes and filth onto our city for its residents to breathe.

The 53-83 highway would cut our town exactly in half. Every child of high school age, as well as residents of Winston Park, would have to cross this speedway daily to get to school, the business section and commuter service.

At the intersection of the 53-83 and Palatine road, proposed highways, is now a Lutheran church and the proposed site of the Winston Park grade school. I think you will agree with me that this is certainly not a healthy place for children at the intersection of 2 highways.

Thank God, our village board has enough interest in the welfare of its children and all its citizens to disapprove and fight a thing like this, even though obviously its newspaper hasn't.

H. W. Klawitter,
Palatine.

Private Schools and Buses

The recent letter from a Palatine mother on tax-financed buses for private schools interests me.

It seems to me, however, that she is mistaken in her view that parochial school children are the ones being discriminated against. I see it the other way around: they have discriminated against their own public school by rejecting its education for that of a private school.

Since the taxpayers are maintaining a fine public school and providing bus service to it, I believe they are fulfilling their obligations. If some parents do not want to send their children to the public school, are we then to ask the taxpayers to finance their private schooling? The bus service is certainly a part of their private school bill.

Although not a resident of Palatine, I feel confident that this mother's children would be welcomed into the public school and would get along just fine. Further, if the entire student body of the parochial school sincerely wanted to enter the public school system, facilities and teachers would be provided.

However, her suggestion sounds more like blackmail, threatening to enter all pupils suddenly en masse, than a sincere desire that such a change take place, in an orderly manner.

It's unfortunate that these children and their mother find going to the private school such a hardship. But, after all, this was her choice. The taxpayers would provide her with both school and bus service out of her taxes if she chose to take advantage of these public facilities. She turned them down.

It also might interest her to know that this free country is a "republic" whose fine public school system—a typically American institution—has been a potent influence to keep it free from domination by any one "special interest" group.

Marie H. Pope,
Prospect Heights.

Leading the Way!

The Way We See It

Suburban Newspaper Must Meet Challenge of New Era

Significantly, Paddock Publications' first Suburban Problems Clinic is being held in the midst of National Newspaper Week.

The newspapers of America set aside this week to call attention to the services they perform. But more than that, they set it aside to remind themselves and their readers of the obligation they owe the public.

Nowhere is this obligation stronger than with the suburban newspaper.

Suburban growth has been swift and impulsive; with it have come problems, problems which affect all communities: hodge podge development, traffic congestion, poor drainage, crowded schools, under-staffed public offices, faulty zoning, and police and fire emergencies.

Paddock Publications believes the suburban newspaper must accept an important role in developing intelligent solutions to area problems. It must be a positive and progressive force in the development of suburbs as an attractive environment in which to work and to live.

The first Suburban Problems Clinic is an important step toward the realization of this broader community service goal.

The basic purpose of the newspaper has been and always will be the same: to tell the happenings of the day. Its next and almost inseparable function is to try to place the facts concerning these happenings in perspective—to give them meaning in the light of other events, past and present. It is with this function in mind that Paddock Publications invited more than 500 suburban leaders to discuss the problems in education, zoning, planning, and juvenile delinquency that collectively present a major challenge for expanding communities.

National Newspaper Week is not an occasion for self-praise nearly so much as it is an occasion for self-appraisement. It is a time to rededicate ourselves to the trust placed in us by an intelligent, progressive, and enlightened citizenship.

Paddock Publications is proud to introduce the Suburban Problems Clinic during National Newspaper Week. We hope that it reflects the integrity of our service to an expanding community. We pledge to continue this service role in the years to come.

Only thus can any newspaper become an indispensable item for intelligent living and a constructive and educational force in the development of the community.

State Assistance for School Building Is Up to Voters

by BOB BUCHANAN

(Fourth in a Series)

Voters in any grade school district, requesting state aid for a depleted building program to meet the need of increased enrollment, hold life or death over the outcome of that program.

House bill 882 was enacted as a sister bill to 881 to authorize voters to decide whether or not to levy a tax to pay 6 per cent of original construction costs each year for 16 2/3 years. The tax levy is unlimited as to rate and amount.

BY THE TIME a school district has met all the provisions of the bills, it must have passed the special tax levy or contingent upon passage within 45 days in order to have the state begin building schools.

The issue must be approved by a majority of those voting.

A certificate of levy can be recorded with the county clerk before the end of the calendar year under the bill. The second Tuesday in September does not apply as it does to other school tax levys.

IF SCHOOL districts, needing additional rooms and lacking funds, can get by this hurdle, they most likely will be able to get their share of $10,000,000 the legislature appropriated for the bieuuium ending June 30, 1959.

That is provided they registered by last Saturday, the end of a 90-day initial application period. For districts which did not send an application to Vernon L. Nickell, superintendent of public instruction for the state of Illinois, and secretary of the School Building commission in time to qualify, they will be given consideration according to the date their application is received by the commission. Of course, this is true only if any of the $10,000,000 is left or becomes available following grants made to those who applied during the 90-day period.

In The Shadow Of The Steeple

Suburbs Ignore Plight Of Migrants Who Stay

by REV. WILLIAM McGILL

All through these northwest towns we think of the people in our communities as "Good neighbors."

People move out of cities in order to have air and sun and trees and neighbors for themselves and their children.

DO YOU REMEMBER an old song title —"I picked a lemon in the garden of love (where I thought only peaches grew)"? There is a lemon in the idyll we pen upon neighbors and trees and room in which to live and play.

The lemon to which I refer has to do with the way we treat Americans from the southwest. They have been a great help to us in recent years in truck gardening operations in Cook county.

As long as they came north in spring or summer and went south in the fall, very few seemed to worry greatly about their living conditions, or the kind of education their children received, or whether the spirit ——if not the letter ——of laws regarding child labor were violated.

THERE WERE farms where people of Spanish-American heritage were employed where accomodations were in keeping with their humanity. There were farms where other of the people were awarded living condition slightly lower in comfort and healthfulness than that given the pigs. And there were farms of great variety in between.

But the real opportunities for exploitation appeared when some of the people from the southwest decided to brave the northern winter. They went to work in factories, nurseries, anywhere that might employ them. Chicagoland has been built on group migrations like this for more than a hundred years.

THE PEOPLE FROM the southwest had picked carrots and tomatoes in great quantities where new suburbanites are harvesting carrots and tomatoes with awe and thanksgiving. Quite naturally, they attempted to settle in the area they knew.

Have you attempted to rent a house anywhere within 20 miles of Glenview or O'Hare recently? How easy do you think it is on a laborer's income? Have you wondered how the Negro children feel in segregated schools in the south? Or their reactions at Little Rock and Nashville? How do you think it feels to be in a one-room school in the midst of a full 8-grade school — —a segregated one-room school composed solely of children whose parents have a Spanish-American origin?

TWO PEOPLE who are involved in the effort to assist these folks in finding housing are Father Reichert at St. James Catholic church, in Arlington Heights, and the Rev. Jack Alford, assistant minister at the Congregational church, in Des Plaines. They will appreciate your willingness to help in this fundamental step.

There is a lemon in our orchard of peaches in modern suburban northwest towns, a lemon of poor human relations, or unconcern for the stranger within our gates. That lemon is not the Spanish-Americans; it's the bitterness in the hearts of the rest of us. It is the lack of charity in our lives (and charity means more than giving alms).

Only we can do something about it.

Way Back When

Suburbs Had Their Town Dead Beats in 1907, Too

50 Years Ago

October 4, 1907

The bells were ringing Sunday, Sept. 29 for the marriage of Miss Martha Schwolow and Mr. Henry Hinrichs, Jr. After the ceremony they drove to the groom's home where they had a dandy supper, prepared by good old German cooks. They start their happy career on the John P. Moehling farm about two blocks from the groom's parents.

PALATINE — Mrs. Helen Wilson takes the lead in a role in a drama entitled "In Wyoming" at the Olympic theatre in Chicago next week.

Miss Cora Bergman was surprised Sunday by a number of Palatine and Chicago friends who came to celebrate her 18th birthday.

Palatine has a South Water street of its own or anyone would think so who has occasion to pass by the north side of Schoppe Bros. store. Poultry is their specialty.

Louis Fedrowitz and Miss Alma Zueke surprised friends by going quietly to Chicago Wednesday and returning as man and wife. Louis recently purchased the Peck property and has had it entirely remodeled and has had it entirely remodeled.

WERE IT NOT that church collections are usually a failure in Palatine, we would recommend that the sidewalk method to provide walks for our citizens. With the first demolition of our board walks, the committee are having their troubles and are beginning to believe in "Her Name was Maude." If you are planning to "hand them a few," remember without a committee, we would have no one to kick to.

The Enterprise turned out the much needed and thankfully received new telephone directories this week. Hereafter all desiring to telephone from central must go to the booth provided in Hamer's drug store.

L. C. Kramer is the father of a little girl who arrived Tuesday morning. If she resembles her father, she will be the happiest baby ever. Because did you ever see Kramer when he wasn't smiling?

BENSENVILLE—Fire, which originated in the barn of F. H. Volberding, swept away his out buildings and the Gilde Hall owned by Hy. Thieman, Tuesday afternoon. By the most heroic effort of citizens and firemen it was kept under control.

Itasca — Hon. W. Thieman has placed the Itasca mercantile emporium on a sound financial basis and will turn the business over to his sons-in-law, Henry Rosenwinkel and Reinhold Kuhlman, who as soon as they complete the inventory, will lay in a stock of general merchandise and be prepared to handle all the trade that comes their way. Henry Rosenwinkel will be postmaster and Miss Clare Goeddeke will retain her position as clerk and act as assistant postmistress. Public confidence has been restored.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Forke gave a party to a houseful of friends, Tuesday evening in honor of their double birthday October 1.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — Dunton Boulevard has been totally neglected for ten years. It is about time the village dads set their prejudice aside and make some needed repairs on this best and most traveled street of the town. A few loads of gravel would close those mud holes and stop the ruts growing deeper.

Wm. C. Meyer, a prosperous farmer of Chicago Ave., half way between Heights and Palatine, and family are happy over a baby boy born Oct. 1.

SEVERAL dead beats have quit town during the past year, without paying their debts. If there are any others left, we hope they too will move away before they run up any more bills with our business men.

Sept. 30 was a day of great joy for the congregation of St. John's and will long be remembered, when they celebrated their fifteenth anniversary.

March 2, 1902 the congregation was organized in the home of Mr. Christ Volz. 12 members signed the constitution. July 25, 1902 they resolved to build a church. The dedication took place April 5, 1903. During Rev. Wagner's ministry the parsonage was built, a church bell purchased and 2 acres of land bought and dedicated for a cemetery.

MISS CHARLOTTE Blohm and Mr. Fred C. Heiden were married Sept. 29, by Rev. Bierbaum. The bride was been the "hello girl" at the Palatine exchange for two years and will continue as her husband expects to be called soon for service in the U.S. army.

A Palatine man threatens the editor with annihilation if his name ever appears in this paper again. Perhaps there are others who would consider themselves lucky if Palatine did not have an editor. We think they ought to consider themselves in luck that the editor they have got does not publish all he knows. We have a pigeon hole draped in black, in which are buried forever "stories that might have been."

We wish we knew whom we could blame for leaving Palatine off the Rand McNally official automobile maps. Even the newly printed maps showing the proposed cement highways, for which $60,000,000 is to be spent, do not recognize that there is such a place as this BIG city; Schaumburg, Roselle, Long Grove, etc. receive honorable mention.

AN ELECTRIC hot water heater has been added to the equipment of the W. W. Stroker fountain for the purpose of dispensing hot drinks the coming winter.

Mr. I. M. Kuebler died Oct. 3 of cancer of the liver. He has been a prominent man in Palatine for many years. He held various political positions during his life but during the last ten years refused to accept political preferment.

Bensenville — Infantile paralysis has even found its way out to our remote town. The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ernsting has a case of it.

Fred and Irving Geils are back from their trip to Latimer, Iowa. They covered 880 miles without a puncture or any trouble.

SCHAUMBURG — Mr. and Mrs. W. Kastning are happy parents of a baby girl born Sept. 26.

Several motorists from neighboring towns are surely flirting with the undertaker the way they speed over the new Schaumburg boulevard.

Arlington Heights — Miss Alvina Clausing, youngest daughter of Mrs. Fred Clausing, and Mr. Carl Lussman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lussman, took the oath that made them man and wife, Saturday, Sept. 29. Nearly all of Arlington Heights is interested in this event. The bride has lived here all of her life and is well known by all. Her delightful personality have won her friends wherever she went. Altho employed in Chicago she is well versed in the duties of the home and will make the young man of her choice a loving and devoted wife.

Mr. Lussman has been employed at the Sieburg drug store for 1½ years. He recently purchased the John Tesch residence on State road which will be their home.

Don't fail to read the Arlington Heights State Bank Liberty Loan adv. Ro your bit. Wheeling Township is supposed to take $60,000 of this issue.

The opening of Arlington Park next Monday is a great day for Arlington Heights. The people of this village have taken a lot of interest in the big project. All business houses will be closed Monday from noon until 5 p.m. in order to give everybody an opportunity to attend the races.

THE ROOMLESS army is upon us. Every spare room in the City of Good Neighbors will be rented before Saturday. The demand for accommodations are so great that this paper is publishing an appeal to the housewives of Mt. Prospect and Palatine and even Des Plaines to open their homes to these strangers who are seeking abode here the coming three weeks.

The Arlington Heights Variety Store will be the main establishment of its proprietor, H. D. Hagenbring hereafter. He has sold his Des Plaines store to the Woolworth people.

Reuben Guild was born at Blackberry, Ill., in 1849. With the exception of fifteen years residence in South Dakota, his entire life was spent in Arlington Heights. He passed away Sept. 27.

Neighbors and friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hartmann, 521 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, will call upon them Sunday afternoon and evening in honor of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Hartmann has the distinction of being the oldest business man in Arlington Heights. Until his retirement early this year he had been in business at one location for fifty years. The earlier shoe repair shop was opened in the front room of his residence and years later as business expanded he erected a store upon the same property and later a modern structure. Three of his sons followed in the footsteps of their father. One is in business in Park Ridge and two will be found at the old Hartmann place of business in Arlington Heights.

O. G. BARRETT has resigned as farm adviser of Cook county. He came to Cook county eleven years ago, at a time when the farm bureau was at its lowest.

Mrs. Augusta Schwolow, wife of the late Henry Schwolow, one of the older families of Palatine, passed away Monday morning at the home of her daughter Mrs. Ed. Tonne. She was born in Germany in 1866. Nine of her twelve children are living.

Mrs. Ella Leiseberg, who had resided in Bartlett the last 30 years, died Sunday evening. She was born in North Northfield in 1870.

Miss LLilian Behrens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Behrens, of West Slade street, Palatine, was the bride of Henry Schwantz Saturday afternoon.

MUNICH, GERMANY

Visiting the chambers of Lundtag, we learned that 204 members are elected every 4 years and the Senate, a body of 50 members selected by their peers in a non-political way by lawyers, etc.

The Senate is an advisory board from which the Lundtag receives measures desired by the government and on which the Lundtag does all the voting. It is highly political with 5 different parties. No other German state has more than one house in its legislature and this one, an experiment, is only 7 years old.

IN A CRYPT, there are 33 sarcophagi of Bavarian rulers back when it was an independent nation. The earliest was a princess born in 1544 and dying in 1602.

When we visited a house 300 years old, modernized in essential respects, a companion guest was Prince Charles Schwerfenberg of Austria. He feels that Mamie Eisenhower's hair dresser should be strangled; that American women are not sufficiently docile, and that American democracy goes much too far when first and second Lieutenants sit at the same table with their troops. He added he "feared" he had shocked us.

In a ride back to Salzburg with the count, in his car, he explained that scientific forestry now was his best crop because Polish and Czechoslovakian forests were destroyed by the war, but he can't convert ordinary fields into wood lots except if one of his peasant tenants dies or commits a serious criminal offense, permitting the landlord to dispossess him.

IN MUNICH'S America Haus, in addition to magazines and papers from home, to our surprise we found genuine soft American toilet paper; most places have none or only the harsh washboard texture.

Munich is rapidly restoring bombed areas. Many books and 'objetd' art were hidden in salt mines and elsewhere and are now either back in repaired structures or new ones. Two of the famous museum buildings were gutted by bombs.

This city is older, as a real city of culture than Berlin. At the old town hall, "Rathaus," we listened to the medieval clock do its tunes and march its knightly figures around 3 of the tower's platforms. There must have been at least 1,000 tourists in that great public square looking at the ancient pageantry.

WE AND MANY others climbed the steep narrow winding stone steps, about 80, to the elevator starting place in the Franenkirche tower, up about 600 feet to the great panorama of this charming city. Many of Munich's finest art treasures of many centuries are housed in a rebuilt building. We went to the Princeregentzin theatre to hear the familiar "Rosene avalier" which was done better than ever we have heard that opera elsewhere.

We reached Innsbruck, an ancient town in the Australian Tyrol on the Russian Glacer river of the Inns. In the early evening, we took the "finicular" (mountain suspended railway) up on Mt. Hungerberg —a vast panorama bathed in sunlight and sunset kept us there through tea and on until Innsbruck's lights far below appeared jewel like after dark.

THE MUSEUM in Carina d' Amperzza, Italy, has an extensive collection of paintings. Other works of art in archeological objects mostly of local origin. The most interesting paintings were connected with the Tyrolean uprising, against Napoleon in 1807-'09 led by Andreas Hofer.

We visited Hofkerche, or Court church, containing the great tomb of the Emperor Maximilian, which had a series of reliefs in marble depicting his exploits. On each side of the tomb were more than a dozen iron statues of various royal figures including King Arthur of Round Table fame.

We went over the Brenner Pass with only a moment's delay to look at passports; no stamping; no customs. (B12

Predict 400,000 LP-Gas Tractors in '58

Greater power, longer engine life, and reduced maintenance are major reasons for growing use of LP-Gas as tractor fuel. Leading manufacturers are stepping up production of LP-Gas factory models. Inset: Behind the wheel of a new factory model LP-Gas tractor.

Chicago—More than 400,000 LP-Gas farm tractors will be in use on the nation's farms in 1958, it is predicted by the National LP-Gas Council.

In the first six months of 1957, approximately 30,000 farm tractors were converted to LP-Gas while 7,474 factory equipped models were produced. This brought the total LP-Gas tractor population to 340,474.

While total tractor production decreased 25 per cent last year, production of new LP-Gas tractors bucked the trend to show a 4.5 per cent increase. An equally significant increase is predicted by the Council for this year.

There are many factors responsible for the growing popularity of LP-Gas as a tractor fuel. In many areas cost of the fuel is favorable.

But greater horsepower and operating economies realized through the use of the fuel are even more important than cost.

The fuel's high (110) octane rating and slow burning characteristics make it possible to achieve additional horsepower. The octane rating is always constant, assuring a smooth flow of power when the engine is accelerated.

University tests and farm use records indicate that engine wear and maintenance costs can be cut as much as 50 per cent and dollar savings per tractor may range from a minimum of $75 to $300 a year. Periods between major engine overhauls are two to three times or more longer with LP-Gas engines than with gasoline engines.

Because LP-Gas is a dry gaseous fuel, it does not tend to wash oil from cylinder walls. LP-Gas is a liquid in the bulk storage tank and in the tractor fuel tank. It becomes a vapor on the way to the carburetor where it mixes thoroughly with air to achieve complete combustion.

Canada Importer Of Grains

Illinois grain farmers who think of Canada only as an exporter of cheap, coarse grains should be thinking of that country as an important customer as well.

C. P. Schumaier, University of Illinois Agricultural economist, points out that soybean sales to Canada are increasing. He estimates that since last October 1 they have totaled about 10 million bushels, more than double the volume of 3 years ago.

Canada is also buying our corn, Schumaier points out. Since last October 1, sales have totaled about 12 million bushels.

Our imports of Canadian grains, rye and feed wheat, will run about 51 million bushels during the past 12 months. Although this is a greater bushel volume than our exports, corn and soybeans are much higher value crops and make the dollar value of our grain trade more nearly equal than the bushel volume.

Schumaier feels that present United States quotas on Canadian coarse feed grains may not be in the best long-run interests of Illinois farmers. They might some day be used as a bargaining weapon to impose Canadian quotas on our corn and soybean exports, both much higher value crops to Illinois farmers than course grains. (Fm

Coming Auction

Henry Weidner will hold a dairy cattle auction on Thursday, Oct. 17, on farm located on Arlington Heights road 4 miles north of Arlington Heights. Complete listing next week.

Also Sell Food

Consumers are expected to spend more than six billion dollars for non-food items in American super markets this year.

The hog producer has had a better year so far in 1957 than in the same period in 1956. The prices were low in 1956 because the supply was too large. However, there are some danger signals ahead again.

Fall farrowing is up 5 per cent above last year in Illinois. In the corn belt states fall farrowing is up 4 per cent from last year. The number of all hogs and pigs on farms September 1, in the midwest states totaled 45,301,000 head, one per cent more than the 44,801,000 head a year earlier, but 10 per cent less than the 50,502,000 head on farms on September 1, 1955.

The important fact to consider from the above data is that if the trend continues for another year, we may find ourselves with too much pork again, thus making it quite unprofitable for the pork producer.

DURING THE COURSE of a year, I received numerous inquiries on trees, lawns, shrubs, flowers, etc. While this is not my field of study, I do have some material available in my office.

Tree feeding can be done at any time of year, but feeding during April, May or October when the soil contains ample water is especially beneficial. Tree foods are most readily available when in water solution; hence it is highly desirable that sufficient water be present in the soil to dissolve the food. Well fed trees seem to be more resistant to drought.

In my next column, I will tell you the kind and amount of fertilizer to apply and the method of application. (Fm

Hog Production Increases; Price Prospects Favorable

by L. H. SIMERL

Prices of hogs will remain favorable for at least another 12 months. This expectation is based on a study of the U. S. Department of Agriculture quarterly pig crop report recently released in Washington.

The over-all picture looks like this — Market supplies will be about the same during the rest of this year as they were last year. In the first 3 quarters of 1958, they will be 5 to 7 per cent larger than in the corresponding months of this year.

PRICES SEEM likely to average a little higher this fall than they did a year ago, but they will be a little lower in the first 3 quarters of 1958 than they have been this year. The seasonal low this fall seems likely to be in December — later than last year. The high next summer may be in June rather than in August, as happened this year.

Farmers in 9 leading hog-producing states had 3 per cent fewer hogs over 6 months old on September 1 than they had a year ago. They had 1 per cent more hogs 3 to 6 months old than they had the year before. Thus the supply available for market during the rest of this year will be about the same as it was a year ago.

On September 1 farmers had 4 per cent more pigs less than 3 months old than they had a year ago. These pigs, farrowed in June, July, and August, are counted as part of the fall pig crop. They will make up most of the market supply from January through April.

FARMERS IN 10 leading hog-producing states planned to have 4 per cent more sows farrow in September, October, and November this year than they had last year. The average number of pigs saved per litter may be slightly larger than last year, though such increases are more common when hog production is declining. In addition, there may be increases of more than 4 per cent in other states, although all the other states produce less than 30 per cent of the nation's pork. Nevertheless, it appears that the increase in the fall pig crop will be moderate — probably not more than 5 or 6 per cent.

According to the USDA, farmers plan to have 7 per cent more sows farrow in December, January, and February than they had a year earlier. The bulk of the spring pig crop will be farrowed in March and April, but the percentage of increase for these months is not likely to differ much from that earlier in the season.

PART OF THE prospective increase in pork production will be offset by an increase of nearly 2 per cent in population and probably an even greater increase in consumer income. In addition, the supply of beef is expected to be a little smaller than it has been in the past 12 months.

While hog prices seem likely to be a little lower in 1958 than they have been this year, they may well be high enough to encourage a greater output in 1959. (Fm

Farmers Can Use Future Market to Good Advantage

by G. L. GORDON

As the result of a statement quoted in a metropolitan newspaper, we have received a number of inquiries as to how farmers could use the futures markets to their advantage.

To buy or sell a "futures," a person contracts to receive delivery of or to deliver a specified amount of a commodity of a grade stated to be deliverable by the commodity exchange, such as the Chicago Board of Trade, during a specified month. The seller has the option of deciding on what day of the month he will make delivery. The contract can be canceled at any time by taking the opposite position in the future market.

AS AN EXAMPLE of use of this device, a farmer may decide today that the December futures on corn at $1.28 which may be equivalent to $1.13 at the local elevator, is as high as he can expect when he wishes to sell his new-crop corn. He goes to a local grain broker and tells him to sell 1,000 bushels (or more) of December corn. It is sold at $1.28. The farmer may deliver the corn to the local elevator any time prior to about December 22, receive cash for his corn, and cancel his future contract by having the broker buy 1,000 bushels (or more) of December corn. The farmer expected to get $1.13 for his cash corn. What happened?

If cash corn is $1 at the local elevator when he sells, the future would be about $1.15 in this example. He would receive $1 for his cash corn and gain $.13 on his futures transaction. He sold futures at $1.28 and bought them back at $1.15. If he sold his cash corn at $1.25, the futures would be about $1.40. He received $1.25 but lost $.12 on the futures (sold at $1.28, bought at $1.40). He netted 1.14. He also had to pay $5 to the broker as a fee for the 1,000 bushels and had to keep cash with the broker equal to about 6 cents a bushel to protect the broker. This is called margin.

FEW FARMERS USE the futures market directly. More contract with the local elevator to deliver the grain in a specified month at a specified price. In that case the elevator operator probably sells an equal amount in the futures market. Otherwise the elevator operator would be speculating.

Perfect price forecasting is impossible. One has to have complete and accurate information relating to both future demand and supply. Available information is neither complete nor accurate. Then it would require perfect interpretation of the information. That would require much training and experience. However, to the extent that individual farmers or their economic advisers obtain the information and judgment, the futures market will offer an opportunity to take advantage of coming circumstances before they arrive and before others recognize the shadow that they cast before them. Henslee Farm To Cooperate In Campaign

Henslee Farms of Arlington Heights, one of the leading breeders of Guernsey cattle in the middle west, has been selected to cooperate in a nationwide campaign this fall to reduce dairy losses from mastitis.

The breeding farm, which was founded in 1943 by E. B. Henslee, is one of 47 major purebred establishments in the U.S. chosen by American Cyanamid co. of New York as sources of supply of registered foundation heifers for its $25,000 "Win a Dairy Star" mastitis contest.

"All of the prize animals will have a background of breeding for production and type," said Mr. Bowman, "and the Henslee Farms are well qualified to furnish the kind of heifer we would be proud to present to a winner."

The Henslee herd currently numbers 160 head, including MacDonald Farms Pre Karen, who was Grand Champion at the 1949 International Dairy Show, and three of her daughters.

Details of the mastitis contest, which opens October 1 and ends January 31, 1958, are available at local feed and drug stores. (Fm

Bulk Milk Handling Tanks Being Installed Rapidly

Dairy farmers serving Illinois markets have been putting in bulk milk handling tanks at a much faster rate than have producers nationally.

R. E. Jacobson, extension dairy marketing specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that about half of the milk produced in the two major Illinois milksheds is now shipped to market in bulk tank trucks instead of in can-hauling trucks.

Use of bulk tanks is increasing rapidly, Jacobson says. Most recent figures show that 43 per cent of the more than 4,000 shippers serving the St. Louis market now use bulk cooling tanks. These producers furnish 52 per cent of the milk on the market. A year ago comparable figures were 22 per cent of the producers and 27 per cent of the volume.

The story in the Chicago market is much the same. In the Chicago milkshed 36 per cent of the 21,000 producers have now installed bulk tanks, and these producers account for 46 per cent of the milk received there. A year ago only 18 per cent of the producers had bulk cooling tanks, and they furnished 24 per cent of the volume.

Jacobson estimates that the switch from can to bulk handling methods may mean a saving of up to $12 million annually to the dairy industry. The greater share of this saving occurs at the milk plant in the receiving and cooling processes. Part of both the costs and the labor is shifted from the city milk plant to the farmer and truck driver.

A study in the Chicago market shows that the average bulk shipper had 16.2 cents a hundredweight deducted from his check for hauling costs, compared with 18.5 cents for the average can shipper. In addition, lower milk loss, less farm labor and premiums of up to 25 cents a hundredweight for bulk handling help to off-set the higher costs of bulk tank installations. (Fm

Records Needed For Dairy Herds

Recent research work further shows the value of using milk records alone in selecting cows for herd improvement, says Ralph Johnson, dairy extension specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

This study shows that dairymen selecting cows only on the basis of high milk production will automatically be selecting for an increase in the various constituents of milk at the same time. The percentage of butterfat, milk solids not fat and total solids in the milk, will rise as milk production increases with succeeding generations.

However, according to the report of this research conducted at the University of Idaho, percentages of these constituents will increase at a slower rate than will milk production.

Results of this research are additional proof of the value of weigh-a-day-a-month milk production records, Johnson continues.

Earlier work by dairy scientists at the University of Illinois showed that product on records alone could be expected to be 90 per cent as effective as a combination of milk and butterfat records for use in improving the herd.

Dairy men can use weigh-a-day-a-month milk records to cull low-producing cows and to select heifers for herd replacement with the knowledge that they are accurate and reliable. See your county farm adviser about enrolling in the program. (Fm

Conservationists Discuss Soils

Directors of the North Cook County Soil Conservation district held their regular monthly meeting last Monday night at the Farm Bureau building in Arlington Heights.

Monthly reports were presented by Elmer Offerman of the Soil Conservation service and Carl Mees, Cook County Farm adviser. Paul Sweningson, secretary of the group said, "In addition to these reports several proposed projects of the district were considered."

In outlining the details of one project, Sweningson announced that the district is preparing an exhibit. This exhibit will be displayed at various locations in North Cook county. "Our aim in preparing this material is to further the ideas of soil conservation and proper soil management," Sweningson explained.

Also discussed was the preparation of a news release in the form of a letter to landowners in the district.

The board discussed tentative plans for the annual meeting which will be held early in January. The annual meeting has always been a highlight of the year's activities.

The directors are planning to obtain an outstanding speaker on soil conservation.

The next meeting will be held Monday night, Oct. 7 at the Farm Heights. Anyone interested in soil conservation is invited to attend these monthly meetings.

Auxiliary Urges: 'Come to the Country Fair!'

PAINTINGS BY LOCAL artists, silhouettes of children, and quick sketches will be offered at the artists booth at the Northwest Community Hospital center auxiliary community fair October 11 and 12. Mrs. John G. Allen, 116 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights, puts finishing touches on one of her paintings for the booth.

VISITORS TO THE community fair at Arlington field house in Recreation park will be treated to coffee and snacks at a booth operated by Mrs. Richard Eaton, Mount Prospect, Mrs. Leo J. Mueller, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Alec Proctor, Palatine.

More than 2,700 members of the women's auxiliary of the Northwest Community Hospital center are completing plans for their final major fund raising event for the year — the Community Fair in Arlington Heights October 11 and 12.

Thousands of thrifty shoppers are expected to take advantage of the opportunity to purchase above-average quality merchandise at a third to a half under retail prices.

Fair hours at Recreation park field house, 500 E. Miner are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

ALL ITEMS to be placed on sale have been donated. Every sale is clear profit for the hospital fund.

On sale will be "white elephant" items — articles in good condition — as well as costume jewelery, men's jewelry and leather accessories, cakes, cookies, breads, jellies, jams, pies, toys and novelties, infants wear, hankies, unique items for the home, trays, decorated baskets and buckets, handmade slippers, and Christmas trimmings and decorations.

A plant booth will offer African violets and other small house plants as well as novelty work gloves and gardening accessories.

Novelty aprons, pot holders and other sewn articles for home and garden made by auxiliary members will be on sale as well as bar-b-que aprons for men.

AN AUCTION BOOTH will feature items secured from personalities of films, TV, theatre, etc. as well as items mailed from other countries and states.

Paintings by local artists, silhouettes of children, and quick sketches will be available at an artists booth.

Theme of the fair, designed to raise $5,000 to help meet the auxiliary's hospital pledge of $25,000 to equip an emergency operating room, is "Harvest Country Fair."

For the convenience of mothers, a baby sitting service — the "Chicken Coop" — has been established in the basement of the field house. For a quarter, children will be treated to puppet shows, story telling, drawing, magic, and singing as well as 10 minute nail sketches of Heidi, Tom Sawyer, Little Black Sambo, and Hansel and Gretel. The 25 cent donation will all be turned over to the hospital fund.

A HOST OF valuable free prizes will be given away.

To promote the fair, members are engaging in a "Tell 5 to Tell 5 to Tell 5" campaign. One woman phones 5 people, tells them to notify 5 other other women of the fair. Through "word of mouth" advertising they are hopeful of a good attendance.

Serving as auctioneers in the "celebrity" booth will be TV personalities Bob Murphy of the "Bob & Kay" show and Wayne Gri[illegible]

AMONG CELEBRITIES who have donated items to the auction booth are Perry Como, Howard Miller, Gov. Stratton, Ralph Edwards, Kukla Fran & Ollie, Gary Moore, Ray Rayner, and Antoinette Pope.

The Northwest Community Hospital center women's auxiliary is the largest of its kind in Illinois. It is comprised of lay people interested in the hospital program and is designed to serve as a means for public relations and fund raising in behalf of the new hospital.

(All photos by Fred Gareiss were taken at the Country Store Paint co., 40 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights).

EXAMINING SOME of the infants wear to be offered at the community fair are Randy Owen and Carol Scanlon while Mrs. Robert Scanlon of Rolling Meadows beams her approval.

MOTHERS ATTENDING the hospital auxiliary's community fair will be able to park their children in "The Chicken Coop" for 25 cents. Mrs. Lu Stahl, shown here with Carol Scanlon, Diane Staahl, Michael Staahl, Randy Owen, and Jackie Sullivan, is dramatics and modeling teacher. The baby sitting service proceeds will be turned over to the hospital fund.

AMONG HAND MADE ITEMS to be sold at the auxiliary's community fair is this lovely quilt being held up for approval by Mrs. Ernest H. Kretz, Mrs. Herbert Knutson, and Mrs. Caroline Volkening.

THE COMMUNITY FAIR will offer a galaxy of values to thrifty shoppers October 11 and 12. Putting the finishing touches on aprons and Christmas decorations and trimmings are Mrs. Einar Larson of Barrington, Mrs. John A. Doyle of Rolling Meadows, and Mrs. Clair B. Owen Jr. of Arlington Heights.

AUTUMN BENEFIT "Suburban Silhouette" will feature these 3 pretty models, Mrs. J. E. Gobeille of Mt. Prospect, left, and Mrs. J. F. Ellis and Mrs. J. H. Curran of Park Ridge. The fashion-luncheon will be held October 16 at Tam O'Shanter country club with fashions shown by Rothschilds. Sponsors of the affair are members of the Twentieth Century Club, Juniors. (S

Be Patient and Sympathetic When Your Child Is Afraid

Childhood fears —which turn a youngster's life into moments of terror — need not grow into adult phobias.

If parents can discover the reason for a child's anxiety, patience and intelligence on their part can dispel this terror.

FEAR OF WATER, high places, animals, claustrophobia, can often be traced to parents' mishandling of new experiences; for example, tossing the child into deep water to "teach him to swim."

A child's fears can sometimes be the result of careless adult conversation, and the adults' failure to realize that children take to heart (and to hysteria) tales of tragedy and death, especially stories of other children being trapped, kidnapped, or murdered.

Simple misunderstanding of certain normal operations such as loud noises made by sirens — can fill an imaginative child with horror.

SOMETIMES the child's fear can be traced to unexpressed anxiety that something will happen to his mother. This explains why some youngsters suddenly start screaming if they see Mother putting on her hat to go out.

Other childhood fears, such as being afraid of the dark, are simple and unreasoning. These, too, must be handled as if they had a direct cause.

Often, parents may be aware that a child is troubled or afraid, yet are unable to discover the cause of the anxiety. Alert parents can tell when a child is frightened by noticing deviation from his normal behavior that cannot be traced to a physical source: the "good" child becomes difficult to handle; a child who has always gone to bed quietly becomes wakeful and demanding; the child who has always eaten well loses his appetite.

If the cause of the anxiety is not apparent, there is little to do but accept the child's view that a situation is terrifying. In any case, constant sympathy and reassurance are needed. For example, a tiny night light screwed into a baseboard outlet will dissolve a child's fear of the dark that can turn bedtime into a session of frayed tempers for both parents and child.

NO MATTER HOW illogical or unreasoning the fear may be, it cannot be cured by punishment, shame or ridicule. Do not force the child to do something that frightens him unless it is absolutely necessary for his welfare. These "remedies" only impress children with new anxieties.

Most childhood fears yield, in time, to the comfort and warmth, supported by logic and adult status, that parents are able to offer to the youngster. Then, as the child grows older, parents can assure him from their own experience that some fears and anxieties are to be expected and lived through.

Navy Chapel Is Scene Of August 31 Nuptials

Lt. and Mrs. Wayne Leslie McCall are now living at Gainesville, Fla. after their marriage August 31 at the Chapel in the Woods at the naval air station, Norfolk, Va.

The double-ring ceremony which united the couple, was performed by Cmdr. William R. Petrie of the United States Navy. Music in the church, which was decorated with white gladioli, pom poms, palms and lighted tapers, was provided by Mrs. Don W. Korte, organist, and Luther I. Jennings, who sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and the "Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the former Marion Jane Kazwich daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kazwich, 105 Elm st., Prospect Heights. She wore a gown of white chantilly lace over nylon tulle and bridal satin fashioned with a pointed basque bodice, softly scalloped rose point lace neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in wedding points over the hands. Inverted pleats, caught with medallions of lace, trimmed the bouffant skirt which swept into a cathedral train. French illusion dropped from a Mary Queen of Scots cap of seed pearls, irridescents and lace, to form the bride's fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered fuji mums centered with a white, purple-throated orchid. A strand of pearls which she wore, were a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. McCall's sister, Miss Irene Kazwich, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of emerald green, silk organza over taffeta. It had princess lines, bouffant skirt, and scooped draped neckline of matching velvet. Her hat was a half crown of velvet with a brow veil. Bronze fuji mums formed her cascade bouquet.

Miss Dorothy Marie Cudd of Norfolk and Miss Ann Gray Gaut of Washington, D.C., were bridesmaids and wore matching dresses and carried semi-crescent bouquets of sunshine glamellias and yellow fuji mums. Their gowns were styled like that of the maid of honor.

2nd Lt. Keith McCall, USAF, Tallahassee, Fla., was best man and Robert Sage, brother-in-law of the groom from Gainesville, and Randolph Lee Gaskell of Washington, D.C., were ushers.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark McCall, Jacksonville, Fla. Mrs. McCall wore a Dior blue crepe dress and a corsage of golden cymbidiums. Mrs. Kazwich's dress was of beige lace over taffeta and her corsage also was made of cymbidiums.

The reception was held in the Jamestown room of The Commissioned Officers' club in Norfolk after which the couple took a wedding trip to the Bahama islands.

Mrs. McCall was formerly in the Industrial Relations department at Oceana naval air station, Virginia Beach, Va. Lt. McCall was graduated from senior school of engineering, University of Florida, and is now attached to squadron VS-736, naval air station, Jacksonville.

Quite Contrary

Bridge Experts 'Teach' Novice

by MARY

You can well imagine my consternation when I found that a certain friend in our neighborhood was so unenlightened that she didn't know how to play bridge. I thought that just about everyone was on speaking acquaintance with Charlie. Goren, that is.

Three of us immediately decided that something would have to be done and right away. This oversight must be corrected and we were just the girls to do it. After all, the 3 of us had been playing the game since the year 1 and anything we didn't know, was not even worth bothering about. Her horizons were about to widen. If she thought she was happy before, just think how much happier she would be when we got through with her.

SO, WE SET a day for the lesson. We met and told her all about cutting toward your opponent, making the cards while your partner dealt, bidding to the left and all that important stuff. I must admit that one of us experts started bidding to the right but we soon laughed that off as a gay joke.

We all sort of got through the point values of the face cards and only bogged down a little when it came to the values of voids, singletons and doubletons. Two of the bridge whizzes had brought Goren's book of rules for the use of the novice. This book was quite valuable. It was just that the student never got to hold the book much less look in it.

THE BIDDING went around without too much trouble and some fool bid. This caused all teachers to make desperate grabs at the text to figure out responses while the poor student sat and kept saying, "What did I do, what did I do." That's not what had us going. It was just that we didn't know what to do.

You can just bet that we never admitted that to her. We kept assuring her that we wanted to give her scientific reasons for any further bids. Such happy riffling through page after page to the part on responses. Getting over that hurdle, we rocketed on to rebids by opener. Rather than interpret what we had just read, which we couldn't have done anyway, we just told her to shut up and be happy with what she had.

SO SHE PLAYED the hand at 2 hearts and made 7. We quickly served the coffee and cake, told her she was doing just fine and wasn't it fun. Then we made a date for the next lesson.

We didn't give her a book. Let her get her own book. We have a little research to do before Wednesday.

Just Around The Corner From Patty McArdle

The Value of Grandparents

Dear Peg:

I feel sorry for children who grow up never knowing that special love and understanding that comes from only Grandmas and Grandpas.

Our kiddies are especially blessed. Not only do they have a Grandma who loves to have them visit her for weeks at a time, at her cottage on the river, but they are adored by another Grandma and Grandpa who have a farm in the country and a real pony to ride.

There are few things that we say to the children that bring more joy or happier squeals of delight than the words, "We're going to the farm to see Grandma and Grandpa today!" And if they are to stay over night, they are uncontrollable until we turn into the driveway of Manapisu Farm.

Although summertime graces the farm with fragrant roses, old-fashioned flowers of all kinds, startling views of crimson and gold sunsets and gentle breezes which keep visitors cool and comfortable, the autumn season is my favorite at Manapisu. To see the leaves turn yellow, to see the corn shocks, striped gourds and orange pumpkins in attractive arrangements on the picnic tables and to watch the lavender haze settle over the fields and meadows, for as far as you can see, are enchanting sights. Even Grandpa's barbeque, with its glowing coals and sharp scent of burning hickory is most appealing in the brittle chill of a pale gold autumn afternoon.

It was such a weekend a few days ago that we made the announcement to the children that sent them into a tailspin and us to some hurried packing. They gathered together books and dolls enough to last several weeks, and in twice the time I always figure it will take we were finally ready to go.

About the time we leave Richmond, still about 15 or 20 miles from the farm, Megan and Bridget start asking if they can see the farm yet (because of the gently rolling land, we can see the buildings of the farm from the highway when we are still 2 or 3 miles away) and we invariably reply that we're still too far away. But, before very long, that thrilling sight comes into view and they shout "There it is!"

A beaming Grandma and Grandpa are always on hand to greet us, but never reach the car before their granddaughters have jumped out and thrown their arms around them. The arrival this time was tinged with sadness, as a favorite greeter was not there to meet us. Friendly old Laddie, the collie so dear to the family, was missing. Old age and a crippling former accident had brought about the decision to humanely "put him to sleep." With true childlike candor, Bridget had no sooner kissed her Grandpa "hello" then she said, "You said over the phone that you'd 'put Laddie to sleep,' but Megan told me that means he died and we would like to see where he's buried."

Grandpa and Grandma McArdle showed them the spot under a lilac bush where he often rested in the shade. Megan said sadly, "Poor Laddie"—and that was the end of it—no more was mentioned for the rest of the weekend.

The first place the girls visit upon arriving at the farm is their bedroom in "Children's House" (the three bedroom "apartment" built with an eye to the future, over the large garage and work room). After making sure that the dolls, books and jewelry box are where they left them and deciding who's to sleep "up" and who "down", they make a bee line for the swing set and sand box.

After our lunch of grilled hamburgers, around the picnic table, Megan and Bridget were ready for a trip to the hay loft followed by an afternoon of riding Mike the pony —you see they keep their Grandpa hopping, and he loves it. With all the nice places to play, Patrick's favorite is still the gravel driveway. He busily moves the rocks from the driveway to the grass and back again. He also loves a walk around the yard with his Grandma.

Being a little too chilly to eat our supper out that evening, we had it in the recreation room, where a sparkling fire in the fireplace made the room warm and cheery. After dinner we indulged in our favorite sport—watching movies and slides of our friends, trips and ourselves, of course.

Is it any wonder that Megan reflects our feelings when, upon leaving at the end of the weekend, she says, "I feel so sad when we leave the farm"?

My love,
Patty,

Wheeling Couple Wed In August Ceremony

—Jenart Studio

In the 11 a.m. nuptial mass in St. Mary Catholic church in Buffalo Grove, Miss Dolores Schwall, daughter of the Edward F. Schwalls, 235 E. Dundee rd., Wheeling, was married to Lawrence Brumm, son of the John C. Brumms, Strong st., Wheeling, August 31. The service was double ring and was performed by Rev. George Ballweber.

Organist was Margaret Schilgen and soloists were Lucille Dressler and Margaret Schilgen. Baskets of white gladioli with yellow ribbons decorated the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a dupioni silk dress with chantilly lace fashioned with Queen Anne collar, long sleeves and chapel train. Her lace-trimmed veil was held in place with a pearl tiara crown and she carried a prayer book with bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

Their gowns were of yellow crystallite fashioned identically to the maid of honor's gown. Their shoes matched their gowns and their flowers were of yellow daisies and white carnations. Yellow daisies and white carnations also made up their headpieces.

Pamila Hanson of Wheeling, 6-year-old niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a baby blue crystallite dress. She carried a tiny bouquet of blue daisies and white carnations and a basket of carnations petals which she scattered down the aisle.

Three hundred guests attended the reception held in the Wheeling Amvet hall in the evening. Mrs. Schwall received in a metallic blue crepe dress with matching feather hat and blue shoes. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige dress with white carnation corsage.

'Do It Yourself' Recipe For Chocolate Cake Roll

FAVORITES FOR FLAVOR

by LOIS SEILER

Here is a "do it yourself" recipe for one of those Chocolate Rolls which you may have seen in a bakery but have never tried to make.

Using Mrs. LeRoy A. Chloupek's recipe, you'll find that this dessert is simple to prepare as well as delicious to taste.

Made of 5 eggs, the cake itself is light-textured. It is spread with whipped cream, rolled up and sprinkled with powdered sugar.

This cake roll is best made the day before, and will serve 10 to 12 persons. It is a favorite dessert in the Chloupek family.

The Chloupeks live at 202 S. Wheeling rd. in Prospect Heights. They have a daughter, Carol, who is a freshman at Beloit college.

Mrs. Chloupek is a member of the Prospect Heights Womans club.

Chocolate Roll

5 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
¼ cup cocoa
¼ cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Beat yolks slightly; add sugar and beat well.

Mix cocoa and flour together and add to yolk mixture. Add vanilla.

Lastly fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Line a jelly roll pan and grease well. Spread batter in pan and let bake 10 to 15 minutes in moderate oven, 350 degrees. Let cool.

Cut a sheet of waxed paper 6 inches larger than the cake. Sprinkle the paper with powdered sugar. Remove cake from tin and place on waxed paper.

Beat 1 cup whipping cream. Add a little vanilla and 1 teaspoon powdered sugar. Spread over cake.

Roll cake lengthwise and wrap waxed paper around roll. Fold in edges of waxed paper and secure cake with toothpicks.

Place in refrigerator 6 hours or overnight. To serve, cut slices on a slant.

Serves 10 or 12.

Wallpaper Design Can Help, Hinder

Certain wallpapers look stunning in the sample book, but they become almost shocking when you put them on your walls.

A University of Illinois home furnishings specialist says many people select wallpaper for its decorative effect. And this one point often causes the most trouble.

DOROTHY IWIG says first to decide whether you want striped, scenic, floral or geometric paper.

If you want to use a striped paper and your ceilings are about 8½ feet high, narrow stripes might be a good choice because they make the ceiling look higher. But if the ceiling is above 9 feet, use a wider stripe to modify the height.

Scenic-type paper gives a room perspective and depth. Geometrical designs lend themselves well to modern styles.

DUAL-PURPOSE areas can cause problems when it comes to choosing wallpaper. For instance, in a combination kitchen-eating area, which part would you paper and which would you paint?

In most cases Miss Iwig would suggest painting the work area and papering the eating area. The wood used in cabinets today is usually rich looking and shows up best against the plain background of a painted wall. On the other hand, the dining area can stand to be gay, so wallpaper is uaually a wise choice there.

There's a slightly different kind of wallpaper on the market now that you might want to try a cut-out. You can either buy it or make your own. If you make it, use a sharp razor to cut out the main design from a regular piece of wallpaper. Then apply the cut-out with wallpaper paste to a plain-colored wall. This treatment can be a simple but stunning addition to any room.

Buying New Glassware?

The wonderfully crowded counters of merchandise in your local variety stores makes shopping an exciting venture but occasionally confusing.

However, today's modern manufacturing methods make it possible for inexpensive glassware to have great durability, and a few simple tips will help you select glass that is sturdy as well as beautiful.

Whether your choice is a practical water tumbler or a full set of tableware, the principles of careful buying are the same.

HERE ARE 10 tips to insure good quality when you buy glassware, no matter what the price:

1. Resist glass that will not blend with the rest of your tableware.
2. Avoid the over-decorated or the extravagantly colored piece.
3. Buy an extra glass when you buy a set. You may not be able to replace pieces from your set and you may discover an extra use for the glass you buy and then need more than you think.

4. JUDGE the shape of a glass by holding it against a dark handbag or against the sleeve of your coat.
5. Judge the clarity of glass by holding the piece up to the light. Check for bubbles or other imperfections. They will not weaken the glass but might interfere with the clear refraction of glass and that is what makes glassware sparkle.
6. Don't be afraid to mix glassware if it is of different but harmonious design or color.
7. Heft the glass in your hand. It should feel well balanced.
8. Choose decorated glass carefully to go with your tableware and linen. An elaborate glass will be set off best by a plain cloth and tableware.
9. Learn to see more than one use for a piece of glass. A pitcher can be used effectively for flowers. A champagne glass is perfect for serving puddings.
10. Watch when your purchase is wrapped and see that the salesperson covers your glassware with enough paper to prevent breakag

REMEMBER WHEN you're shopping that every home needs three glassware collections: one for cooking, one for serving and one of occasional pieces, such as ash trays, vases and candy dishes. As a matter of fact, you'll find modern and versatile glass for every room in your house!

FOOT SAVING EDUCATION

by J. H. Kotz

My son's shoes smell to high heaven. Is it a common problem? Can it be corrected?

It is rather common. If you remember, before schools were air-conditioned, teachers always spotted their desks between the door and the window and they left the window open until the pupils turned blue. That wasn't because the teachers had claustrophobia.

Almost every boy who has asked me about this embarrassing condition was wearing shoes that were much too short for his feet. Shoes are designed to fit the heel of the foot and the arch while leaving air space in front of the toes and around them. Practically all of the work and the perspiring are done by the toes. Crowding them into the fronts of short shoes seals in the perspiration until it acquires an odor. More on this subject next week.

Mothers Have Some Specific Ideas on Children's Wear

How does Mrs. Housewife want Johnny and Susie to dress this year?

A graduate home economics student at Illinois Institute of Technology has found out.

By interviewing 54 families at Illinois Tech, Mrs. Vimaladevi C. Kenkeremath learned that mothers have definite ideas about what they do and don't want.

SIZE OF THE families surveyed ranged from 1 to 5 children — an average of 1.6. Incomes varied from $3,000 to $10,000 a year. The mothers, wives of IIT students and staff, were, with a few exceptions, non-employed.

"Observation has shown that the type of fabric and garment put on the market is often unsuitable for its intended purpose," said Mrs. Kenkeremath. "They rarely meet the requirements of growing children."

She pointed out that there are 16 million children in the U. S. under 6 years of age who must be clothed, and added that "little thought is given to various problems involved in making garments suitable for the pre-school child."

* * *

THE FOLLOWING facts were learned by letting the mothers speak for themselves:

Cotton still is the favorite fabric, although nylon is preferred for "dress-up" for girls. Wool and wool gabardines are tops for boys' dress clothes. Favorite underwear fabric is cotton knit.

Mothers prefer conventional types of clothes, although they like overalls for little girls. Embroidery, smocking, and appliques on simply-designed clothes are desirable for everyday wear.

FOR SPECIAL occasions, little men are dressed in bow ties and dress shirt collars. Although bows, sashes, and back buttons are hard for little girls to manage, they stilll are considered attractive for parties.

Mothers — and children, too —like light, soft, smooth fabrics. Nylon and wool make the child uncomfortable, especially in summer. Mothers prefer cotton dripdry fabrics, although they still require ironing. They also fray and lose loft, or resilience, and weight in washing.

Fastenings that children can manage are important for the development of independence and the molding of later habits. Mrs. Kenkeremath pointed out that such features are overlooked by the majority of children's clothes manufacturers today.

GARMENTS WITH tight elastic waist bands cause discomfort to the child, although mothers in general liked the use of elastic in pre-school clothes.

Rayon was reported as the least durable fabric and was considered unsuitable for children's clothes.

Mothers made several suggestions for improving children's clothes:

—More allowance for growth and shrinkage in all types of clothes.

—More durable garments in the medium price range.

—Better self-help features in garments, such as the use of more elastic waistbands, dropseats in training overalls, gripper snaps, and zippers in everyday clothes.

COLORS PREFERRED by the mothers were red, yellow, and blue in that order.

Each homemaker had an average of 2 or 3 complaints on the workmanship of ready-made garments. More than half were dissatisfied with the way buttons, buttonholes, and seams were put on garments, and nearly half did not like the way snaps and hooks were put on children's clothes.

Chief complaints, however, were running of colors in fabrics and ironing difficulties. Lack of size standardization came in for its share of criticism, as did the fact that the most attracive styles were the most difficult to iron.

In short, said Mrs. Kenkeremath, the survey indicated a "lack of coordination between the ideas of homemakers and clothing manufacturers about the factors that are important in design and construction of preschool children's clothes."

Breakfast Poster Contest Started

School children are being reminded of the value of eating a good breakfast every day in a contest sponsored by Cook County Farm Bureau and the Illinois Agricultural association.

More than 2,150 prizes are being offered in a "Better Breakfast" poster contest being carried on throughout the state.

THE BEST POSTER will be used in the 1958 "Better Breakfast" contest. Purpose of this poster campaign is to make people realize that a good breakfast will help them do better in their school work and will improve their efficiency and other activities.

Surveys show that at least 25 per cent of the people in the United States on an average morning eat little or no breakfast.

Studies of 500 school children by one university indicated only one out of 5 met the recommended daily food requirements when the morning meal was below par.

ENTRIES MUST be submitted to the school principal by October 12, and judging will be done by county and state committees. Scoring will be based on eye appeal, originality, theme, and proper identification.

A brochure outlining details of the contest, including an entry blank, may be obtained from C. H. Mills at the Cook county Farm Bureau office in Arlington Heights. (Fm

Protect Your Equipment

"AT TODAY'S PRICES, you can't afford to leave implements outside the year around," say farmers throughout the country. "They have to last a few years longer than ever before."

Therefore, yesteryear's sights of tractors and combines corroding in open fields or under trees are becoming less common.

The pole building provides much better protection than trees and at very little cost when compared with waste caused by depreciation of implements.

It is a modification of the farmers' standby, the pole barn, which costs less to erect than other types of construction and yet is sturdy and flexible.

Pole buildings can pay for themselves in a handful of years by providing longer service life of implements. The buildings will last much longer than a few years if they are erected with poles and lumber commercially treated with permanent-type preservatives such as penta, which protects wood from termites and rot.

These buildings can be multipurpose structures and can be easily converted to other uses. Combination bar-corn crib-implement buildings have been built. Tool rooms, garages, or grain storage sections can be provided within the building.

Contractors specialized in putting up pole buildings quickly and efficiently are available in most parts of the country. For the farmer who wants to put up his own buildings, penta-treated poles and lumber as well as other necessary materials are available from building supply dealers.

Plans are readily available from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, state agricultural colleges and many of the metals manufacturers.

Grass, Legumes Necessary In Soil Conservation

A successful soil conservation program for a farm makes generous use of grasses and legumes. A farm having a good crop rotation, which is the core of a soil conservation plan, should have 25 to 60 per cent of the acreage seeded to grasses and legumes, according to Elmer Offerman, soil conservationist.

U.S. Senator Ingalls of Kansas, some 85 years ago had this to say about grass. "Grass is the forgiveness of nature——her constant benediction——forests decay, harvests perish, flowers vanish, but grass is immortal. Its tenacious fibers hold the earth in place and prevent its soluble components from washing into the sea."

Grasses and legumes in a rotation benefit farms in the following ways. They provide cover on the land to help control erosion. improves tilth and structure of the soil, maintains soil drainage and adds organic matter, the lifeblood of the soil.

During the past 15 to 20 years bromegrass and alfalfa have proven to be the ideal combination of grasses and legumes for most farms in Northern Illinois.

The main reasons for the success of this combination is that first of all it makes a high-quality hay, pasture or grass silage for either dairy or beef cattle, and secondly, due to its aggressive growth it adds thousands of pounds of roots and top growth to the soil when the field is plowed.

The planning of the proper crop rotation for a farm is only one part of a farm conservation plan.

Farmers may receive assistance in soil conservation planning by contacting Elmer Offerman of the U.S. Soil Conservation service at the Farm Bureau building in Arlington Heights.

IT WAS YOUR DAUGHTER'S FIRST NIGHT AT COLLEGE...

The house was quiet and lonely. You didn't dare look at your husband, for if you did, you knew the tears would come. So you just sat there, waiting. And you knew he was waiting, too.

The telephone rang. Almost before you knew it, you were hearing her voice again, feeling the youthful enthusiasm behind her words. "College's wonderful, Mom! I miss you and Dad, but you're not far away by telephone, are you?"

That's the moment you knew life wouldn't be half so pleasant without the telephone.
